JAPAN'S GAINS OF NO IMPORTANCE

PINCER-GRIP WON'T HURT CHINA ARMY

Chiang's Troops Far Too Numerous To Be Herded To Defeat

(Special to "Telegraph")

Hankow, May 13.

China has despatched a number of full-strength divisions into the Kweichow area in order to stem the Japanese advance from Tsining, and the strength of the Chinese forces on both sections of the Tientsin-Pukow railway is over 60 divisions, or approximately 400,000 men.

A deep and dramatic change has come over the Chinese troops in Shantung, where the spirit of the army is a spirit of victory. Soldiers and officers absolutely believe in themselves and in some cases, like General Fan Sung-fu, the defender of Tungkwang, believe Japan has offended against Heaven and that God carries the banners of the Chinese.

The army is calm and has gained experience. The officers believe the Japanese have made irreparable mistakes, that Japanese soldiers are fighting without a goal before them; but Chinese officers are not over-confident. They believe the Japanese may take Hsuehchow, but that their losses will not be compensated by its capture.

A few months ago it would have been unthinkable to trade divisions from army to army, commander to commander, without arousing friction and jealousy. That has all changed. The army has practically all been recruited since the Lukouchiao incident which started the war. The men are mostly educated and their patriotism is high when they are ordered to defend a position either until death or rescue comes.

Forget Their Pain

The wounded lying by the roadside, groaning, forget their pain and excitedly tell how they fought. While the Japanese have reached a point five miles south of the Lungkuang railway, below Tanchen, the movement has little significance as the ground has been empty of defenders always. They could have moved in there at any time. The Chinese prefer to remain on their northwestern flank.

The pincer movement from Mengcheng in the south and Tsining in the north will have little effect, then, unless the Japanese reinforcements come in large numbers and not piecemeal, as they have been doing. As the Chinese forces are so numerous, the pincer movement is like trying to tie up a ton of bricks with a piece of string.

Position Not Secure

Dutch Crowd Acclaims Baby Princess

The Hague, May 12. From a window in Noordeinde Palace Princess Juliana this afternoon showed four-months-old Princess Beatrix, darling of all the Netherlands, to a cheering crowd gathered at the gates. The baby Princess was still clad in her baptismal robes as her mother held her up for all the multitude to see. Princess Juliana was visibly touched by the enthusiasm of the demonstrators, especially when, shortly afterwards, she appeared on the balcony alone to hear ten thousand school children singing patriotic songs.—Reuter.

ADVANCE CAUSING CONCERN

Japanese Drive On Kweichow

Hankow, May 13.

The Japanese drive on Kweichow from the north and south caused considerable concern last night, when advices from west Shantung stated that the Japanese advancing from Wenshang had captured Yunchen.

Yunchen was evacuated by the Chinese following a most severe Japanese artillery bombardment, reports declared. Japanese forces from Tsining are also advancing along the major road towards Kungshiang, and are stated to have captured Siangli, 20 miles north of Yutai, after the village had been destroyed by heavy shelling.

The Japanese forces advancing along the Lungkuang Railway from Mengcheng suddenly turned in a northerly direction towards Yungchen, south of Tsinghsan.

Advices from Shantung headquarters add that the vanguards of the Japanese forces have reached Shikungshan, 40 miles north of Yungchen. The Chinese forces, it is stated, are launching a vigorous counter-attack.—Reuter.

Fighting Reaches Decisive Stage

Hsuehchow, May 13. Fighting in west Shantung and north Anhwei is reaching the decisive stage. Another Tairchwang battle is being fought at Mengcheng on the north bank of the K'o River, north-west of Pungpu. Though the Japanese are now in possession of the city, two columns of Chinese reinforcements are making an attempt to recapture it. A Japanese unit has penetrated to the vicinity of Yungcheng, 40 kilometers north-west of Mengcheng, on the Anhwei-Honan border. The (Continued on Page 4.)

Only Four Nations Refuse to Follow Britain

The new Chinese army marches into the battle line. Such men as these, in their hundreds of thousands, are opposing the Japanese advance in Shantung and driving the Japanese out of Shansi.

BRITAIN BUILDING MIGHTIEST AIR FLEET

3,500 Squadrons By 1940!

London, May 12. Following the Opposition indictment of the Government's air armament plans, led by Sir Hugh Seely (Liberal-Berwick-on-Tweed), who moved a reduction in the salary of Viscount Swinton, Secretary of State for Air (salary, £5,000 p.a.), Earl Winterton, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster announced to the House of Lords the Government's revised programme, which will be carried out by March, 1940.

Under the revised programme, the Air Squadrons at Home will reach a first-line strength of 2,370 squadrons. Overseas squadrons will be increased to a first-line strength of approximately 490 squadrons.

Provision will also be made for the completion of the first-line strength of the Fleet Air Arm to at least 500 squadrons, as ships and aircraft carriers became available.

"This aggregate of aircraft therefore represents a first-line strength of something just under 3,500 squadrons," said Lord Winterton.

These figures, for constitutional reasons, do not include the large forces being formed in the Dominions. These, the speaker believed, would shortly be brought up to a most efficient stage.

Expects Dominions' Aid

It was inconceivable, however, whether with respect to first-line strength or otherwise, that Dominions in emergencies should not receive the fullest co-operation from other Governments in the Empire.

Lord Winterton said the figures he had given showed that the new programme entirely overshadowed the one announced three years ago, which had been achieved in an unprecedented peace-time programme.

The 1934 programme, which was known as the scheme under which a first-line strength of 1,750 aircraft would be reached, is due to be fulfilled on March 31 next year. It was well up to schedule, and the Ministry hoped that it would be achieved considerably before March 31.

The new expansion scheme would require another 40,000 officers and men in the next two years, chiefly within the next 18 months. "Before the 1934 expansion programme we had 50,000 officers and men in the Royal Air Force. Now (Continued on Page 4.)

MEDIATION OUT OF QUESTION

Neither Japan Nor China Would Accept Offer

London, May 13.

Mediation in the Far East appears most unlikely at the present time, says Reuter's diplomatic correspondent. Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, made it clear in the House of Commons yesterday that it is useless to offer to mediate until both sides have shown a willingness to accept, and at present there is no indication that such a thing is likely in the immediate future.

For one thing, Japan has recently shown that she does not intend to negotiate with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and unofficial observers here felt to see how mediation is possible in these circumstances, seeing that Marshal Chiang is the leader of an unprecedented unity move in China.

Moreover, as far as it is possible to assess the war situation from London it appears both sides are capable of carrying on for a long time without seriously cracking up on either the military or economic side.

Thus it would appear unlikely that either party, while this state of affairs continues, will show any readiness to negotiate.—Reuter.

MILITARY SITUATION

London, May 13. Speaking in the House of Commons last night, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, made a statement on the military situation in the Far East.

He said that since the Chinese successes at Tairchwang in April the fighting in South Shantung had continued, but apart from local Japanese gains there was no appreciable change in the situation.

He mentioned the Japanese advance on Hsuehchow, where the Chinese are apparently preparing for evacuation, and the intensified Chinese guerrilla activities in North China.

He added the situation in Kulungsu, Amoy's foreign controlled area, was quiet.—Reuter.

U.S. RAILWAYS TO SLASH WAGES

New York, May 12.

Railways throughout the United States have notified employees that, as from July 1, wages will be reduced by 10 per cent. The reduction will affect over a million workers.—United Press.

46 Killed In Barcelona Air Attacks

Valencia Suffers Similarly

Barcelona, May 12.

There are 46 dead here and 48 injured following two air raids this afternoon.

In Valencia there are 22 dead and 80 injured as a result of an air raid last night.

The insurgents claim to be continuing to close in on the pocket they have formed between the sea and Teruel and which is believed to contain 10,000 Government troops. It is declared they have advanced to a point from which they are threatening Castellon del Plan, a Mediterranean port.—Reuter.

MADRID OFFENSIVE

Hendaye, May 12. In a surprise attack on the industrial districts of Valencia, insurgent planes carried out an intensive bombing last night. Loyalist circles believe this heralds the beginning of a new insurgent offensive to sever Madrid from the sea.—United Press.

LOYALIST LOSSES

Salamanca, May 12. Over a thousand Loyalist dead were counted in one sector alone after yesterday's insurgent advance east of Teruel.

According to an insurgent communique, 200 prisoners were taken, and huge quantities of war materials were captured.—Reuter.

STOP PRESS

PUHSIEN, SHANSI, RECAPTURED

Shensi, Shansi, May 13. Following a siege lasting over a week, Puhsien, north-west of Linfen, in west Shansi, has been recaptured by the Chinese.

The Japanese forces, numbering about 1,500 men, retired from the city after setting fire to many buildings.

Traffic on the Chengtai Railway is now entirely disrupted as a result of damage done to the bridges and tracks by the Chinese. Shouyang station, east of Taiyuan, was burned by the Chinese.

During a recent engagement at Taihu, south of Taiyuan, more than 600 Japanese soldiers were killed.—Central News.

CHINESE REGAIN AMOY GROUND

Shanghai, May 13.

A Chinese communique from Amoy states that after counter-attacking, the Chinese have driven the Japanese toward Kulungsu, on the northern side of Amoy Island.

The communique adds that the Chinese are recovering lost ground.—Reuter. (Further Stop Press News on Page 12.)

CHINESE DELEGATE STOUTLY DEFENDS LEAGUE PRINCIPLES

Majority Favours Free Action in Recognition Of Conquered Territory

Geneva, May 12.

Every country except four—Russia, China, New Zealand and Bolivia—aligned themselves at to-day's League Council session with the British theory that each nation should recover its liberty of action with regard to recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia.

At the close of the meeting the chairman stated the Council was not required to pronounce upon the question of principle and whatever line of action the Council took would not prejudice any action the League Assembly might take subsequently.

No vote or formal decision was necessary, each country being free to decide for itself.

The session was then declared closed, but the question will undoubtedly come up again before the Assembly in September when a vote will be taken and when the continued presence of Ethiopia in the League will be at stake.—Reuter.

HEROIC CHINESE FIGHTING GAMELY

Amoy Completely Deserted

Amoy, May 12.

Throughout Tuesday night there was an almost continuous exchange of machine-gun and rifle fire on Amoy Island.

The Japanese renewed an intensive aerial bombing at dawn on Wednesday, with the Chinese forces gradually falling back on Amoy City, on the western side of the island.

On Wednesday afternoon a number of large fires appeared in the city, and the Chinese main body commenced retreating to the mainland, three miles distant. The Japanese reached the western waterfront late on Wednesday afternoon, and immediately commenced mopping-up operations.

Meanwhile an intensive aerial bombing continued throughout the day, the Japanese planes roaring overhead unopposed owing to lack of Chinese planes and anti-aircraft guns.

Despite the marked superiority of the Japanese war machine, the ill-equipped Chinese defenders continued to make a heroic stand with the island forts and isolated units holding out throughout Wednesday.

The evacuation of women and children to the Foreign Settlement on Kulungsu Island, 1½ miles away, commenced on Tuesday morning, but no men were allowed to cross until the evening.

REFUGEES SWAMP KULANGSU

To-day, however, practically the whole of the 120,000 inhabitants of Amoy City are crowded on the 10 square miles comprising Kulungsu. Tens of thousands of refugees are blocking every street, which have become almost impassable. All (Continued on Page 4.)

Attacks British Proposal

Geneva, May 12.

The Council of the League of Nations will meet in public tomorrow to discuss the Chinese appeal, eloquently argued by Dr. Wellington Koo. He pointed out that the resolution passed by the League Assembly last year calling for assistance to China against Japanese aggression has not yet been carried out. He urgently appealed to the powers concerned to immediately adopt effective measures to stop the Japanese campaign in China.

Dr. Koo attacked the British proposal, put forward by Lord Halifax, in connection with recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia.

Any step which might carry with it an indication of the employment of force as an instrument of policy in international affairs in order to be accepted need only be successful, he complained. Such a situation would prove an encouragement to the forces of aggression and in the end detrimental, and even dangerous, to the genuine cause of peace.

No Justification

The fact that numbers of League-member states had actually acted in contravention of the League resolutions was no justification that others should follow their example, as this would amount to putting a premium (Continued on Page 4.)

AMERICAN ATTITUDE UNALTERED

Not Affected By Anglo-French Statements

Washington, May 12.

The United States' attitude on the Ethiopian question remains unchanged, stated Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, in reply to questions whether there would be any revision of national policy as a result of the Anglo-French

Night and Day dress this way—

"REMEMBER the bolero—" This is one clear call for you now sounding on Fashion's bugle. Dress dictators have decided that spring fashions must be planned for busy women who want to look neat and smart from morning till night, without making quick dress-changes.

Their decision is an answer to the busy woman's prayer for "something new" that has been deliberately planned for them. Boleros, made in flannel, printed linen, gay cottons or broadens, will solve most dress problems between now and next autumn.

For the girl who has to plan her wardrobe economically, they are practical for the office, smart for town wear, and give a new lease of life to a last season's frock.

In the evening they serve a dual purpose by turning an evening frock into a dinner frock at will; in fact, there is no limit to their possibilities.

Good Week-Enders

Good week-enders, too, as they pack so easily.

So this week I have chosen for you some really easy-to-make patterns that a beginner can tackle.

They will give you ideas of how to adapt this useful fashion to the particular needs of your wardrobe.

First, however, I have popped in a print frock, and, as you will notice, pattern No. 1139 is one of those styles you can run up in a couple of evenings.

I have selected one of the smaller patterned prints, as they suit equally well both slim and average figures.

In the smaller sketch you will see that the frock has an attractive short sleeve, and, by the way, narrow sashes are the latest thing.

Narrow Belts

Many leather belts are barely half-an-inch wide. For important occasions wear a wide chiton sash with long ends. It will give your frock a party touch.

Bolero to be worn over this dress is outlined with the patterned fabric, but if you want to wear it with different frocks, make it in the main colour of your spring colour scheme.

Scarlet and navy are being used a great deal together and are very smart.

Orange Jacket

This same little jacket in orange or green flannel will be just the thing to slip on after a set at the tennis club.

Our model is patterned in four sizes—24, 26, 28, 30. Bust takes 34 yards 30in. material, 14 yards contrast.

The second bolero pattern, No. 1140, sports a collar and rever. This is a practical style for town or office wear. The design is nicely tailored.

Make it up in a light-weight tweed or suiting to wear over wool frocks. A checked or striped fabric will live up to a dark dress.

As contrasts are the keynote of spring fashions, you can go ahead and be as daring as your piece!

Available in sizes 24, 26, 40in.; size 30in. bust takes 14 yards 44in. fabric.

Evening Waistcoat

With this second bolero is included a waistcoat blouse, pattern No. 1140A, which I have shown in a flowered crepe.

Pockets are lavishly employed by designers, and here are four to go on with!

Try it in lamé or brocade for an attractive little evening blouse which, worn with an ankle-length skirt, will give you a useful outfit for special occasions.

Make up this model, too, without sleeves. In a thin wool it looks most

SAFE DIET FOR GASTRIC ULCERS

Great care is needed in the feeding of sufferers from gastric and duodenal ulcers and inflammation of the stomach. The wrong kind of food will increase the pain and discomfort. In the early stages of treatment small quantities of liquid food must be taken at frequent intervals.

But strength must be maintained: the body must be kept nourished. That is why doctors and nurses recommend Horlicks as an ideal food for patients suffering from gastric ulcers and all inflamed conditions of the stomach.

Horlicks contains the essential elements of nourishment. It is pleasant to take. It builds up energy, restores vitality, without irritating even the most sensitive stomach. It gives you strength to combat a long illness, and shortens convalescence. Get Horlicks to-day.

In these difficult times of anxiety and worry, the task of carrying on and doing work which must be done is a doubly difficult one which must tend to exhaust one's nervous energy. Horlicks builds up strength, vitality and prevents that listlessness and tiredness caused by constant nervous strain. H. M. Hodges, Kowloon Building, Queen's Road, Hongkong.

attractive, and if you have any odd scraps of fur use them for the collar, pockets and buttons, which gives you a warm little waistcoat for cooler days. This is made only in the one size, 30in. bust, and takes 14yd. 30in. fabric, 3yd. 30in. contrast. Other sizes available 34 and 40in. bust.

NEW KIND OF dry rouge STAYS ON ALL DAY

...or all night! Savage Rouge, as you see, is a new kind of dry rouge. It is made of the finest particles of rouge, so fine, in fact, that it is almost invisible. It is pleasant to take. A word or two about Jealous Wives from Minnie Pallister

AN efficient secretary writes to tell me that although her work is good she has lost her job because the boss' wife was jealous.

The jealous wife presents a problem to many women secretaries. The wives seem to think secretaries have no interests outside the office where they work for their living.

They imagine the office is some sort of club, where their husbands waste time all day while chatting to other women.

"I have to see that my husband's meals are ready, that his laundry is in order, that his comfort is assured. I have not the time to keep myself groomed and manicured," some of the jealous wives say to excuse themselves.

His Secretary

"But the secretary arrives at the office, smart and neat. She can be at her best and makes herself useful in his business."

Many wives take this stand when there is no cause for jealousy. They don't know it, but they grudge the secretary her freedom.

The secretary's point of view is that she has a living to earn—and who should worry because the boss is a married man? Their relation is strictly that of employer and employee.

If only these wives would realize that their husbands must go to the office to earn money for the home—and that the office is first and last a place of business.

A wife's way to keep her husband's love is to cultivate her own charm and personality. She must give her husband friendship and comradeship, and pay him the compliment of being as careful in her dress and appearance as she was before marriage.

But an intolerant attitude on the part of the wife towards her husband's secretary adds nothing to her own charm.

Top sketch shows the pretty neckline of a frock you can make yourself. Next is a waistcoat blouse in brocade for indoor parties. The "monkey" jacket, made in flannel or silk, is an all-round - the - clock fashion.

Notice the clever touches on the bolero jacket worn over the printed frock.

DECORATIVE WAYS WITH DESSERT

FRESH fruit takes its bow at most meals nowadays. And besides being an interesting course, with a little cunning it can be made a very decorative feature of the table. Especially is this useful when flowers are few and expensive.

Any good florist will have a selection of baskets which will suit the purpose. If you choose one in white wicker with a graceful handle, it can be painted amber, green, or rose, and while the paint is still "tacky," it can have powdered gold leaf blown over it. When the basket is dry, this gives a lovely shot silk effect which makes an enchanting background for the fruit.

A raffia basket is also an attractive container for fruit on the table. Point it all over with gilt and stand it on a square of mirror. Its gay glitter and the reflection of its colourful cargo of fruit gives quite a party air to an ordinary meal. Candelsticks make good companions to this arrangement. See that the candles are in the same shade as the chief fruit, rosy apples, golden pears, or pale, green grapes.

The ordinary fruit punnet which holds strawberries and raspberries in season, can be called into service for arranging fruit on the table. Keep them uniform in size, but paint them in different colours. This rainbow hued effect is really charming. Or the lattice work may be picked out in two different colours to give a plaited effect. Orange and gold, yellow and tangerine, or green and cream look well.

Each little punnet should be loaded with different fruits and they should be marshalled in solidary array down the length of the table. Watch that you give the fruit a well-placed appearance. Pad the inside of the containers with cotton wool, and cover with vine leaves, or if this is not practicable, with artificial leaves or moss.

Flowers always mix beautifully with fruit. An edging of violets, To prevent this slip glasses into hot their stalks stuck in damp moss, water sideways.

will add considerably to the charm of a basket of fruit. Or sprigs of artificial berries tucked in at the corners of a basket will give a delightful finish to a dessert arrangement.

Ribbon in the Limelight

And as bows are so much in the limelight this winter, why not decorate your fruit basket with a triumphant double bow or satin ribbon just to add glamour to whatever fruit you are offering.

Coloured glass, too, is a great asset in arranging dessert. Fruit nesting in an amber bowl is particularly successful, and puce is both warm and striking if you want a container that looks attractive and outstanding.

Perhaps you prefer china? Then do not forget the merits of white on a dark table. It is nearly as effective as silver. A white china container in the form of a shell filled with colourful fruit is a lovely sight, and tempting too.

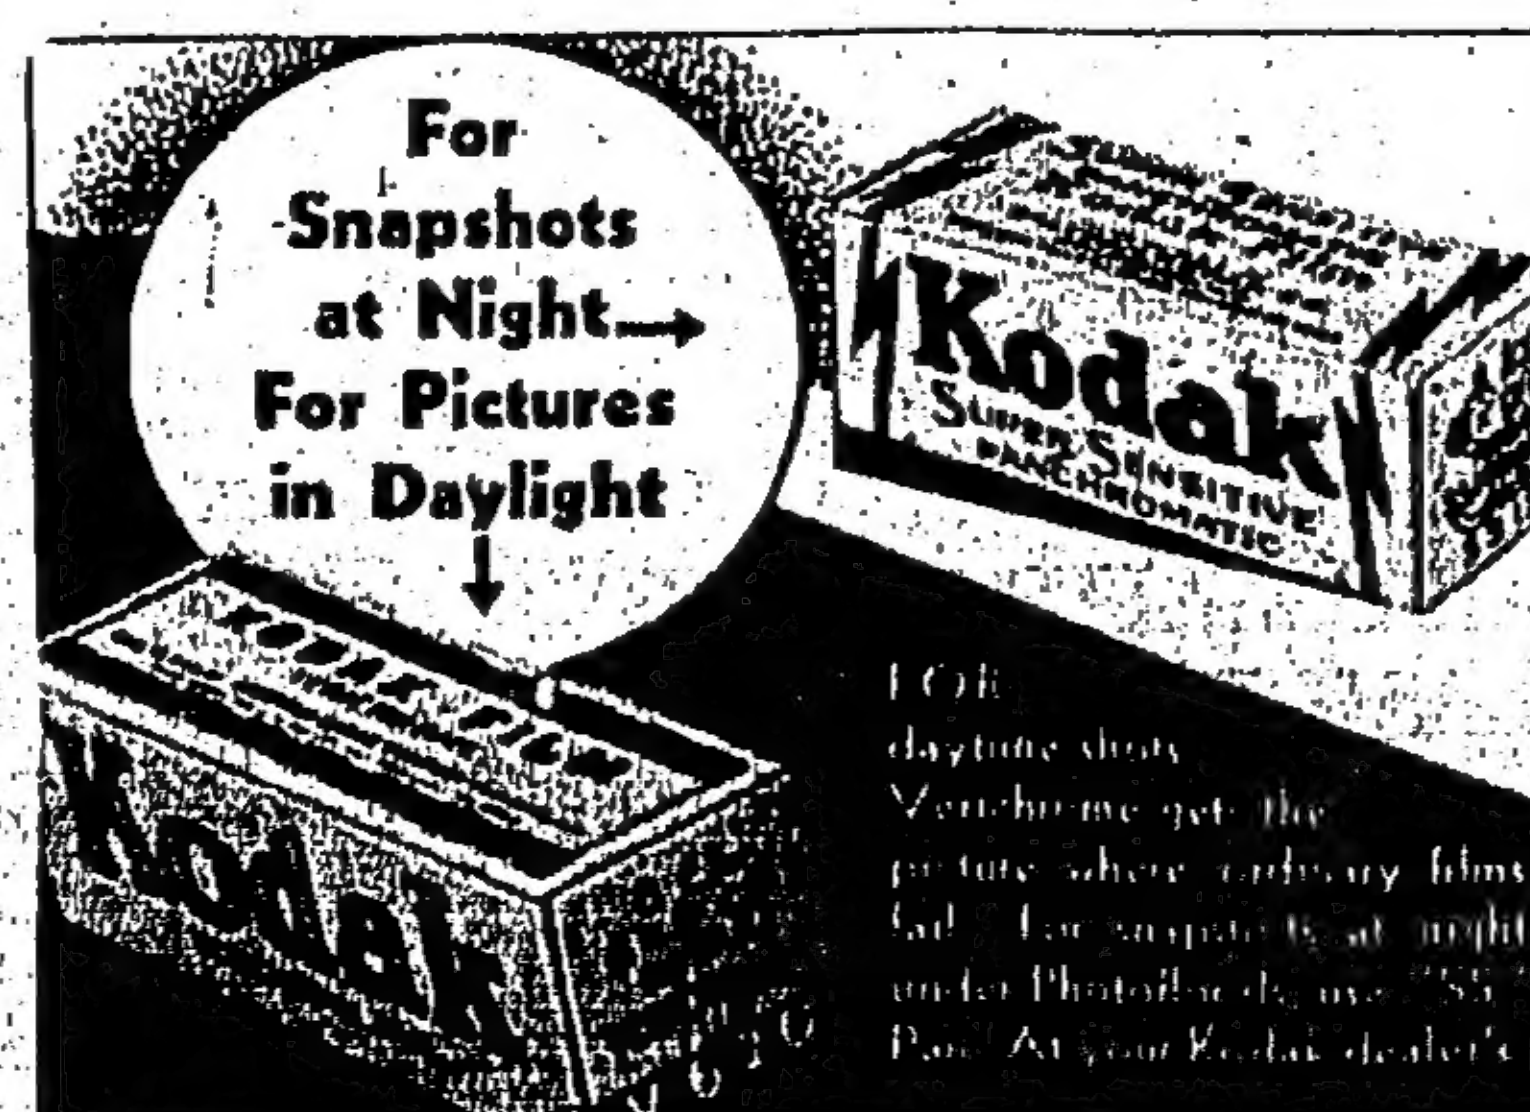

When it comes to fruit on the breakfast table, do not attempt to soar in your ideas. A polished wooden bowl is the best container. It is workmanlike yet attractive. And it fits in beautifully with the morning mood.

GRATE nutmegs from the bottom end and you will find this is the most economical way of using them.

Cauliflowers will keep a good colour if you add half a teaspoonful of milk to the water they are boiled in.

Coffee stains on your tablecloth will disappear quickly by rubbing the stains gently with glycerine, cotton wool, and cover with vine leaves, or if this is not practicable, with artificial leaves or moss.

If glassware is placed bottom downwards in hot water and sudden expansion occurs, cracks may occur.

Those "Smashing" Days

THERE are some days in the life of every housewife when the floor seems to have a magnetic attraction for anything that is breakable. First a cup, then a glass, slips through your fingers, and sigh as you think—Two things broken to-day; I wonder what the third will be.

If you give the matter a little careful and intensive thought, it is more than likely that you can effect a few improvements that would lessen the risk of breakages.

First, let us examine the washing-up bowl. Is it really wide enough to take the largest dinner-plates comfortably, or do you chip the edges in your attempts to prise the plates out of the bottom of the bowl? The taps are another source of danger, but a couple of rubber anti-splash spouts would obviate the risk of knocking plates and dishes against unyielding chromium or brass.

As for the actual washing-up, it is rather tempting on a busy morning to pile cups and saucers, spoons and forks, and other dirty dishes together in a bowl of hot water, but it wouldn't take many seconds longer to wash the fragile things, such as wine glasses or coffee cups, first, to dry them carefully, and put them away out of reach before tackling the heavier things. Perhaps, also, you are rather heavy-handed with the soap flakes or powder, and this tends to make things slippery to handle.

Stock China Carefully

When drying the china, do you stack it carefully on a tray? This is so much safer than standing things down on the kitchen table, particularly if you make sure that the tray is standing solidly on the table and not near its edge. When the butcher boy knocks at the door, the towel often gets thrown on top of the pile of things you have just dried, but a loop on the corner of the towel makes a hook somewhere handy would considerably lessen the danger of knocking something down when you resume work.

Dusting is apt to be a tedious job, but it is safer and quicker in the long run to take everything off the mantelpiece or bookcase first; dust every article and place it down firmly on the table before dealing with anything else. A rapid "flick-round" is the death-knell of many a cherished ornament.

Finally, it is just as well to bear in mind that, where washing-up, dusting, or handling china is concerned, speed is not the chief consideration, and that it is better to make up time on other departments of housework than to risk seeing some possession go crashing to the floor.

A. B.

SPRING ON THE TABLE

BOWLS of fruit and salads help to make the spring meal table "seasonable." A salad that is appetising and nutritious, is made with crisp, light green lettuce leaves, watercress, black grapes, slices of rosy apples (unpeeled), and little shapes of cream cheese piped through an icing-tube.

Cooked dishes can be spring-like also. Gold-brown fillets of haddock or sole surrounded with slices of grilled tomato and sprigs of watercress is a dish to whet a feeble appetite both by its appearance and its taste. Even steamed fillets can be made colourful by adding chopped watercress, parsley, or tomatoes.

Another dainty dish is an egg-in-the-nest with a border of stewed spinach to look like moss.

Divide the egg, whisk the white stiffly and pile it up on a greased saucer. Make a hole in the centre and gently slide in the yolk, taking care not to break it.

Bake the egg in the oven until the white is delicately browned and the yolk just set. Serve it at once on the saucer with the spinach arranged round the edge.

Home Hints

IT is possible to make one's own candied peel by boiling orange and lemon rind in syrup.

Lemon rind may be dried in the oven and kept in an airtight box. This will prove most useful as flavouring for milk puddings, and, if added to rhubarb, apples, or prunes, while stewing, will impart a richer flavour.

Boiled carrots taste much better if a little lemon rind is cooked with them.

Put a tiny piece of dried orange peel in the tea-caddy, and friends will soon be inquiring where you buy such delicious tea.

Villa Murder Charge

WHEN MRS. CASSERLEY VISITED
FLAT: MAID'S STORY"THEY WENT OUT TOGETHER ABOUT TWICE A WEEK"

With tears streaming down her face, Lydia Scott, an auburn-haired maidservant, told a crowded Wimbledon police court recently of week-ends spent together by Mrs. Casserley and Edward Chaplin.

She was giving evidence at the resumed hearing of the villa murder charge. While she spoke Mrs. Casserley burst into tears and sobbed.

Later, Mrs. Casserley, who is to become a mother, collapsed, and was carried out of court by two policemen. She returned half an hour later.

During a hearing in an atmosphere of high drama it was stated that while Chaplin was working as a builder's foreman at the house next door to the villa, he used to lunch with Mrs. Casserley.

Mrs. Casserley told Lydia Scott she was taking a flat for Chaplin and was taking a flat for Chaplin and was taking a flat for Chaplin.

When Casserley was at a nursing home in February, Chaplin stayed with Mrs. Casserley at her house. The case was adjourned.

DOOS
Mrs. Casserley was driven to court by a woman friend. A number of women stood at the gates, and as the car drove in one of them began booing.

The first witness was Lydia Scott, maidservant to the Casserleys at the time of the tragedy.

Dressed in green, with a black hat and veil, she said she had been employed by the Casserleys for about two years, and was the only maid kept by them.

She had known Chaplin about nine months, and Mrs. Casserley got to know him about the same time.

Mr. E. Clayton, prosecuting: Do you know how it was that she got to know him?—He was working on a house being built next door.

HAD TEA

Would he come into Casserley's house?—Not at the beginning. Did he come in later?—Yes.

About how long after she first got to know him?—About two months. What did he come for, do you know?—Just to have a cup of tea.

And would Mrs. Casserley be there?—Yes. Did Mrs. Casserley talk to you about Chaplin?—Yes.

Do you know if they went out together?—Yes, about twice a week. Would he have meals in the house?—Yes, every lunch time.

Miss Scott said that she knew the address of the flat in Abbotsbury-road, Morden, occupied by Chaplin. It was who took the flat?—Well, I think Mrs. Casserley looked it over.

Did Mrs. Casserley say anything to you about the flat?—She said that she was taking a flat for Mr. Chaplin. Do you remember when the flat was taken?—I should think about October.

Do you know if Mrs. Casserley went to the flat?—Yes. How often?—Occasional week-ends. Did she stay the week-end there?—Yes.

Do you remember the Christmas of last year?—Where was Mrs. Casserley?—At the flat.

Miss Scott added that she thought Mrs. Casserley returned home on the Tuesday after Christmas.

HER BABY

Miss Scott said that she did not go to the flat at Christmas. Mr. Casserley was at Landisfarne-road at Christmas. She had stayed at the flat when Mrs. Casserley was there.

Mr. Clayton: What room did Mrs. Casserley occupy?—Where the double bed was. Anyone in the room with her?—Chaplin.

Miss Scott said that Mrs. Casserley had told her she was going to have a baby and that Chaplin was responsible. That was about Christmas.

Mr. Clayton: Did she ever suggest a name?—Yes. If the baby was a girl she would call her Ann.

Miss Scott added that about February Mr. Casserley went into a nursing home. While he was there Chaplin came to the house and slept there. He slept with Mrs. Casserley.

Mr. Casserley went to the nursing home for the second time in March, and was brought home by his wife on the 22nd—the day before his death.

In the meantime Mrs. Casserley and Chaplin had been staying at the flat. She (Miss Scott) was also there.

Miss Scott stated that while Mr. Casserley was in the nursing home Mrs. Casserley told Chaplin that she had told her husband by letter that she was going to have a baby.

Miss Scott added that Chaplin came to the house in Landisfarne-road in the evening of the day of Mr. Casserley's return home and spoke to Mrs. Casserley in the back yard.

He did not see her husband. On March 23—the day of the tragedy—Mr. Casserley went out in the morning and spent the afternoon in the lounge while his wife "went to have a lie down."

At about five o'clock Mrs. Casserley went to her in the scullery and said she was frightened. Mr. Casserley had told her that she would be a fool if she thought that he was going to let someone else have her.

A MESSAGE

Continuing her evidence, she said that she went out about seven o'clock and Mrs. Casserley gave her a letter to post. She also said to her that if she saw "Ted" would she give him a message.

Mr. Clayton: What was the message you were to give him?—That if he would come up to the back door she could see him for two or three minutes.

Miss Scott added that she saw Chaplin and delivered the message.

The Case

Percy Arthur Casserley, aged 58, retired managing director of a distillery firm, living at villa in Landisfarne-road, Wimbledon, was found shot dead at home on March 23.

Edward Royal Chaplin, 35-years-old builder's foreman, of Abbotsbury-road, Morden, is charged with his murder, and Georgina May Casserley, aged 30, Mr. Casserley's widow, is charged as an accessory after the fact by "harbouring, receiving, and assisting Chaplin with intent to elude the pursuit of justice."

He said he would go up to the house and try to see Mrs. Casserley. She returned to Wimbledon about 11 o'clock that night and found the police in the house. She was interviewed by the police, and told Mrs. Casserley that they had asked her who "Ted" was and that they had found some letters.

On the Friday she was with Mrs. Casserley and a Miss Perfect at Faraday-road. After the police had gone Mrs. Casserley spoke to her.

She said that Chaplin had gone back to the house on the Wednesday night and said that he was going in to talk to Mr. Casserley as man to man.

Miss Scott again broke down and wept. A police matron went to her assistance, but she buried her face in her hands and wept bitterly.

BOTH IN TEARS
Mrs. Casserley wept closely. A moment or two later she, too, began to cry.

Her companion offered her smelling salts, which she at first brushed aside.

One of the magistrates suggested that she should be taken out of the court-room for a few minutes, and that another witness give evidence.

Charles Gaspard Daubney, chemist at the Police Laboratory, Hendon, identified a raincoat and several buttons. One exhibit, he said, a button found in the lounge, was similar in all respects to one of the buttons he had taken as a sample from the raincoat.

At this point Mr. Derek Curtis Bennett, who is appearing for Chaplin, asked Mr. Daubney to hand him a document from which he was reading in the witness box.

As Mr. Curtis Bennett looked at the paper he observed, "It appears to be a carbon copy."

Mr. Daubney: The document is a copy of my report typed by the police at the laboratory.

Mr. Curtis Bennett passed the document to the clerk, remarking to Daubney: "I hope somebody at the laboratory will teach you to give evidence without holding a proof in your hand."

The document was retained by the clerk.

As Miss Scott had not yet recovered, Dr. Eric Gardner, of Weybridge, was called to the scene of the tragedy early on March 24.

BULLET FOUND
Dr. Gardner said that he saw the body of Mr. Casserley, and under the carpet in the lounge he found a bullet.

The doctor identified the grey suit which Casserley had been wearing at the time.

When a blood-stained shirt was produced, Mr. Curtis Bennett suggested that it should be kept out of sight and it was at once put back among the other exhibits.

Mrs. Peggy Hackett, of Landisfarne-road, said that when she arrived home about 9.30 on the night of March 23 she went into No. 33 and saw Mrs. Casserley.

"I noticed that there was some blood on the palm and the fingers of Mrs. Casserley's left hand," said Mr. Hackett.

Later she and a Mrs. Burchill assisted Mrs. Casserley to the bedroom.

Mr. Maude (for Mrs. Casserley): It was quite clear that she was very distressed?—I suppose so, but she did not give me that impression actually.

Mr. Maude: Perhaps I have used the wrong word. Two women obviously do not help another woman to bed unless there is something the matter. What was the matter?—I said at the time, and I think so now, that she did not give me the impression of a woman who was terribly upset.

Mrs. Casserley, who had sat listening to Mrs. Hackett's evidence with drooping eyes, suddenly fainted and fell into the arms of her friend.

A glass of water was brought, but Mrs. Casserley still lay limply with her head on her companion's shoulder.

Meanwhile, Mr. Maude continued his questions to Mrs. Hackett. "I was asking," he said, "why two women helped this woman upstairs. Can you not give me a sensible answer to that?"

"Well, I am going by her face."

SHOCK TO HER

Mr. Maude: Will you please answer the question? You understand it. Why did two women help a third up the stairs?—Well, I suppose because of her condition and the shock to her. It must have been some sort of shock, anyhow.

Mr. Maude: I am very grateful to you for saying that. When you speak of her condition, what do you refer to?—I knew that she had not been in very good health for some years.

You never said a word about the blood on the hand to the police until April 6?—No.

Were you a friend of hers?—Well, I was an acquaintance. That is something different, is it not?—Well, yes.

COURT HELD UP

The clerk had just begun to read over to Mrs. Hackett his written record of her evidence, when Mr. Maude, who was seated immediately in front of Mrs. Casserley, interrupted to point out that Mrs. Casserley had fainted, and that the court therefore could not proceed.

Two police officers immediately ran to Mrs. Casserley and carried her from the court by a side entrance.

The court adjourned, but Mrs. Casserley did not return for half an hour.

Sir Bernard Spilsbury, the next witness, said that the cause of Casserley's death was injury to the brain and haemorrhage caused by a bullet.

LIFE PRESERVER

A life preserver was produced and Sir Bernard said that the wounds could have been caused by the larger loaded end of such a weapon.

"The effect of the head injuries," continued Sir Bernard, "must have been to produce a dazed condition in which she fell over the back of the chair, where the trail of blood spots starts."

"If the blows had rendered him completely unconscious a pool of blood would have formed on the carpet where he lay."

"It was in a dazed condition, in my opinion, that he made his way to the end of the room, where the two pools were found, he being at that time incapable of offering resistance."

Troops To Be Dropped From The Air

Washington.

The United States army has perfected plans for dropping squads of troops equipped with machine guns behind enemy lines by parachute, a War Department spokesman said recently.

The strategy calls for dropping a limited number of picked men to hold an important position until reinforcements can be rushed up by land, it was said.

Officials asserted that mass operations, such as were conducted by the Soviet army in Russia recently, were not contemplated by this country. In the Russian tests, it was reported that a force of several hundred men and field pieces were dropped behind "enemy" lines.

"Tests in this country have shown that the plan is perfectly feasible in time of war, and the army is prepared to utilize it," the spokesman said. "Our operations probably would not be on the large scale of the Russian tests, however."

Sudeten Leader
In London

London, May 12. Herr Konrad Henlein, leader of the Czechoslovakian Sudeten (German minorities) Party, arrived in London by plane tonight, and will remain here until after the week-end. It is understood that Herr Henlein intends to discuss with British friends the situation in Central Europe.—Reuter.

ARRIVAL CREATES SURPRISE

London, May 12. The arrival of Herr Henlein in London has created somewhat of a surprise, and has also evoked a crop of speculation on all sides.

Nothing is known of the visit in official quarters, and apparently even members of the Czechoslovakian legation did not know that Herr Henlein intended to visit London.

German quarters have also no knowledge of the visit.—Reuter.

public buildings, schools and churches are full to overflowing.

The food problem is most acute, but Foreign committees are making emergency arrangements.

Chinese military casualties were most heavy, and hospitals and emergency centres on Kulsang Island are overflowing with wounded brought across in small launches and sampans.

Wounded who were taken across the Kulsang are, however, only a fraction of the Chinese casualties, while the Japanese, who also suffered heavily, are attending to their own wounded on Amoy Island.

FORTS HOLD OUT

On Wednesday morning the Japanese continued bombing and shelling the forts, which are still resisting gallantly despite the terrible hail of high explosive raining upon them.

No contacts have yet been made between the Japanese invaders and the authorities of the Foreign Settlement. Meanwhile, all foreigners are safe on Kulsang.—Reuter.

upon unilateral repudiation of obligations collectively undertaken.

For these reasons, he said warmly, if a decision were taken in the Council's name in the sense proposed, the Chinese Government would be unable to support it.

If, on the other hand, the present discussion was merely for the purpose of giving each member state represented on the Council an opportunity to declare its attitude upon the situation without prejudice to the principles of the Covenant or to the resolution affirming the principle of non-recognition of conquests, the Chinese Government would content itself by reserving its position with regard to the principles involved.—Reuter.

BRITAIN BUILDING
MIGHTIEST AIR FLEET

we have 70,000 officers and men," Lord Winterton declared.

Big New Schools

"The great new training schools previously planned for Gosport and Sharnagh will be opened this summer for 5,500 trainees, and there will be two new schools at Cadaby and Weston-Super-Mare, each capable of taking 3,000 trainees.

"Thirty new aerodromes, beyond those already provided for, will be required under the new expansion programme.

"The Aircraft Industry has informed the Government that, with the necessary labour available, the output of aeroplanes and engines can be increased by well over 50 per cent. within the next twelve months and by over 150 per cent. in the following year.

"Dealing with the Air Mission to the United States and Canada, Lord Winterton said that production of aircraft in the United States was small compared with production in Britain.

"We should only require to buy certain machines there, and they will be used mostly for training purposes, if we can get them," he said. "Of greater importance is the possibility of building up a potential war machine in Canada."

Denies Inferiority

Lord Winterton categorically denied that Royal Air Force machines used in use were inferior to those in use in other countries.

As far as comparison was possible, R.A.F. machines compared more than favourably with machines used in other countries.

"Absolutely untrue!" interjected Mr. Winston Churchill, a moment later explained that he meant Lord Winterton's statement was untrue in a sense of inaccuracy (Laughter).

Lord Winterton, continuing, paid a tribute to the British aircraft designers who, he declared, were among the best in the world. He said that all aircraft firms in Britain capable of producing various types of machines efficiently and economically would be given orders enabling them to plan far ahead.

Peak Production Near

Lord Winterton emphasised that there was no ground for apprehension that the services of these firms would not be fully used, or that they would not be given enough orders, or that there would be a shortage of necessary.

Production of aircraft was rising each month, and peak production was not far distant. Pressed to give the proportion between the 3,500 squadrons of first line fighters planned for March, 1941, and the total R.A.F. and Fleet Air Arm strength, Lord Winterton said that no country discloses its aircraft reserve.

"The House must accept my assurance that the Reserves situation is satisfactory and that the numbers of planes available in March, 1941, will be on a scale commensurate with our first-line strength," he said. "Some of our new bombers will be the heaviest machines of their kind ever seen."—Reuter Special.

Deterrent Against Aggression

London, May 12. At the conclusion of his speech, which lasted for an hour and 40 minutes, Lord Winterton, gave an assurance that the British air programme had been framed in the light of the best estimate available of the forces which could be brought against Great Britain in the event of war.

"The programme has been designed as a formidable deterrent against aggression, and an effective defence in the event of attack," he said.

"The defence of Great Britain must be considered as a whole. We are carrying out, simultaneously and on a vast scale, rearmaments, rebuilding and re-equipping of the three Services—the Navy, Army and Air Force—at a cost approaching astronomical proportions.

"We are competing under a voluntary demonstrative system, and I believe we are competing successfully—with governments which have complete control of everything their individual citizens do, say or think."—British Wireless.

LABOUR TO

R.A.F. PROBE

London, May 12. The Labour Opposition has decided to ask Government for an early debate on the motion by Mr. Attlee, calling for a complete, searching, independent and speedy inquiry into the state of Great Britain's air defences, and the administration of all departments concerned.—Reuter.

WIDESPREAD ANXIETY

London, May 12. Mr. Clement Attlee, declared in the House of Commons that the position was grave, and there was widespread anxiety regarding air defences and the methods employed by the Air Ministry.

In urging a complete inquiry, the Labour leader declared that German production was double that of Britain's.

The Government proposals, he declared, would not bring Great Britain, even in 1940, to the position in which Germany is in to-day.

Force machines were, to a large extent, obsolete and obsolescent.

Mr. Winston Churchill, he said, heard "We ought to concentrate on vital types of machines and the most powerful of fighters and long range bombers, instead of going in for all

Brussels, May 12. Following several days of political tension in Belgium, owing to disagreement among the Government parties over new taxation plans, three members of the Cabinet, belonging to the Catholic Party—the Ministers of Agriculture, Justice and of Economy—have expressed a desire to resign.

The Prime Minister, M. Paul-Emile Janson, went to the Palace to consult with the King of the Belgians to-day, after His Majesty had flown back to Brussels from The Hague in the afternoon on account of the political situation.

After his audience with the King, M. Janson stated that the announcement that three members of the Cabinet had resigned was erroneous.—Reuter.

Rangoon, May 12. A Police communique issued this afternoon states that thirteen armed Chinese bandits recently kidnapped thirty persons in Kohang Valley. Measures have been taken for co-ordinating action with the Chinese authorities to deal with the bandits.—Reuter.

ADVANCE CAUSING

Chinese military authorities, however, are not perturbed by their daring advance, believing that they can be rounded up without much difficulty. Chinese troops have already been dispatched to engage them.

In west Shantung the Chinese have abandoned Yuncheng, but reinforcements have arrived ready for a counter-attack. Kinsiang is now the chief point of contention. Under a heavy barrage Japanese infantry units are furiously attacking the town. The Chinese are putting up stiff resistance, repulsing one Japanese onslaught after another.

"The real changes are needed at the top of our air organisation," he declared.—Reuter.

Govt. Members Join In Demands For Inquiry

London, May 12. In addition to the Labour Party, Opposition Liberals have tabled a motion calling for the appointment of a Select Committee to investigate aircraft supply, anti-aircraft defence, and air production.

Mr. Winston Churchill, supported by about 16 other Government members, has also tabled a motion, welcoming the appointment of an independent Committee of Inquiry into the state of Britain's defences. The debate of the Labour motion for an inquiry will take place next Thursday. It is understood that the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, will participate in the debate.—Reuter.

Berlin, May 12.

It is learned that the American Ambassador to Berlin has made representations to German against violation of the German-American Treaty of Friendship.

It is understood that the United States Government wishes assurances that property of American and German Jews of American citizenship will not be appropriated.

JAPAN'S GAINS OF NO IMPORTANCE

In the last three weeks, with reinforcements reported to have actually left Japan, the previous unwillingness to send replacements was a betrayal of the Japanese in China, who found themselves pitted against a superior force, operating in a hostile country and hampered by an aroused peasantry. The conditions were strikingly like those encountered Napoleon when he invaded Russia.

Chinese guerrillas have inundated the land, stranding tanks, breaking Japanese into small groups and then attacking. The Eighth Route Army has moved into the southern section of the Peiping-Hankow railway, and the whole of southern Shantung and Honan, north of the Lungshui line, overflows with angry farmers, armed bands and savage Red Spears.

Foreign military observers emphasise that unless the Japanese send heavy reinforcements from home their only reasonable strategy is to retire north of the Yellow River and strive to consolidate their gains. However, with reinforcements now reported on their way, this advice is not likely to be taken.

A Chinese drive northward, past Tancheng, with a wide sweep from the west towards Tainan, now cannot be carried out, it seems. The best estimate of Japanese strength at present on the Tientsin-Pukow railway front is 125,000.—United Press.

VALUABLE SERVICE

Even those who, for various reasons, do not hold with contraception will find in the work of the Hongkong Eugenics League something praiseworthy and progressive. It is responsible for preventing suffering and death among Chinese women and children, and it gives a practical service to the community entirely without cost to those it benefits. On these grounds it immediately justifies itself and merits support and sympathy.

For a long time the authorities here have been aware that abortion is practised to a great extent among the poorer people. Just how widespread it is is difficult to determine because unless something goes wrong with the operation and the mother is driven to seek proper medical advice, the cases do not come to light. But it is a fact that men and women for a small fee, as little as one dollar, will perform an abortion with medicines and instruments which would make a reputable practitioner shudder. If the Eugenics League's work is encouraged it will certainly counteract this evil. As its scope increases, so will the criminal activities of the abortionists decrease.

In the annual report of the League, recently issued, a number of cases are quoted from the records for the first year of operation, 1937. They present probably the strongest argument procurable for the encouragement of the League's work. Here is a typical example: "Case No. 17.—Sixteen pregnancies, five children living, six died in infancy, one at nine years, four abortions. Mother 41. Husband a hawker in a fish boat." The brief history reveals in a condensed form a story of very tragic elements. The suffering, sadness and despair of that mother can readily be imagined; and the Eugenics

MARGATE has decided to ban the number 13 as a possible to believe in the existence of God, but who find it perfectly easy to believe in the maleficent influence of a single magpie seen flying across a field. When I was a boy I do not think I had a single superstition of the magpie kind. I knew the rhyme about magpies, but looked on it as an old wives' tale. To spill salt caused me no unhappiness. I walked under ladders recklessly. And so did my friends. We looked on superstitions as superstitions—comic survivals from a more credulous age.

I should like to see the Statistical Society setting up a committee to inquire into the influence of 13 on the lives of the people who live in houses so numbered. Do worse things happen to people who live in the number-thirteen houses than to the people who live in the number-ones or the number-twenty-fives? The inquiry would not need to cover all England. A moderately small town or a London suburb would provide all the facts that are necessary.

I myself do not look on the number 13 with a friendly eye; but I blame myself for this: I am convinced that the facts one's fortune could be told from the moles—if any—on one's body. The science of telling fortunes from moles is called Moleosophy. A mole on the right knee, I learned from "Laurie's Complete Fortune Teller," is the sign of a happy marriage. On the left knee, a warning of a bad temper.

More than once I have stayed at a number 13 without any ill consequences. Twice I have— with certain qualms—sat down with a company of 13, and none of us suffered any subsequent disaster.

If you ask my opinion the objection to the number 13, it is they point to a happy ending. "All rot." And yet—and yet, if I were taking a new house, I should probably avoid a house with that number.

In some respects I am strongly in favour of the anti-superstition propaganda of the Thirteen Club—if it is still in existence—the members of which sit down 13 at table, spill salt, open umbrellas in the house and do all sorts of things that would scare an imaginative man out of his life. But I should not care to dine at the club. I do not believe in superstitions, but I prefer to leave it to other people to defy them.

I often wonder whether we of the unfortunate human race are becoming less superstitious or more so. We belong to the most scientific age in history, yet I sometimes think that we believe in a far greater number of silly things than the less scientific Victorians. Even people who have lost their re-

League can help hundreds of others as it has helped her.

A part of the work of the League the importance of which is incalculable is the pre-natal advice offered to mothers, and the thorough medical examination given them. Frequently it is found that these expectant mothers are suffering from some sort of ailment which might do the child a serious damage. Often it can be corrected and by this means much needless suffering is prevented. As to the contraceptive work of the League, there is no obligation upon those who seek advice that they shall make use of it.

At present the League's activities are restricted by the fact that the public is not aware of the service offered. In the whole of its first year it had fewer than 300 cases. It should be helping thousands. It is only a question of making its presence known to the masses of poor Chinese.

To-day is FRIDAY THE 13th

ARE YOU AFRAID OF 13?

By ROBERT LYND

"In some respects I am strongly in favour of the anti-superstition propaganda of the Thirteen Club."

Despite the growth of psychoanalysis, I do not find it easy to believe even in the interpretation of dreams. I have never dreamt that I was eating radishes; but, if I did, I should pay little heed to the authorities who warn me that "to dream of eating radishes is a sign that you will have trouble with someone nearly related to you or a very great friend."

I have never dreamt of a pheasant; but, if I did, I should not be unduly elated by the information that "this is a good dream, especially if the bird is alive and sitting in the sunshine."

As for dreaming of a negro, I have done that; but I never found any confirmation of the statement: "If the negro seems friendly towards you, the dream may tell you of an unknown friend."

Belief in such things is, it seems to me, about as sensible as belief in the evil influence of the number 13. And there is not much sense in that. I fancy that statistics on the subject would show that horses numbered 13 on the race-card win as often as any others. I have often travelled on a 13 bus and arrived safely at my destination.

Why, then, should the house-hunters of Margate worry? There are plenty of things worth believing in without bothering about the number 13.

Margate should not be superstitious. It should number its houses honestly and fearlessly.

I am in favour of every street having its number 13—provided that somebody else lives in it.

How To Live To 100 Years

New York.
VISIONS of human life and vigour extending well beyond 100 years are conjured up by "cradle control" tests with diet revealed in a report by three American doctor-dieticians to-day.

The doctors, C. M. McColl, L. A. Maynard and G. Sperling, have experimented with white rats at Cornell University for the past three years, and the results were told in Baltimore to the American Institute of Nutrition.

Based on the principle that life is prolonged by controlling the intake of calories while maintaining adequate nutrition during the early stages of growth, the experiments show, according to the doctors' report, that

SPAN IS FLEXIBLE
Life's span, rather than being fixed from birth by heredity, is flexible and can be increased to an extent at present unknown; and

Retardation of growth affords a method of retarding senescence (growing old) and extending the life-span far beyond the normal.

The three doctors took 105 newly-born white rats and divided them into groups, one under control, the other feeding normally.

The controlled group were given the same proteins, vitamins and minerals, and were retarded in growth by lack of calories alone. Retardation of growth was stopped in different sub-groups at 300, 500, 700 and 1,000 days respectively, after which the rats were allowed to eat and grow normally.

The report says: "Before the group that was retarded for 1,000 days had reached this age all the members feeding normally had died after passing through the usual period of old age. The retarded animals tended to remain young in appearance in contrast with those that grew normally."

CHALLENGE TO OLD IDEAS

The doctors point out that the experiments "challenge the popular conception that rapid growth develops the best bodies for long life."

Cautious scientists attending the Baltimore meeting any there appears at present no positive reason why the discoveries made in these experiments should not apply to all realms of animal life, and human life itself.

The doctors themselves go no further than to point out that rats which should have died at the end of 600 days have lived to 1,000 days, which, in human life, would correspond to a period of nearly 107 years. The rats are still alive.

If the same laws apply to human beings (and there appears no reason to expect they will not), then parents by accurately controlling early diet could also control the prospective life-span of their children.

COLOUR BLINDNESS CURED AT LAST

Rejected Boy is Now A Sailor

Colour blindness, the least understood and most written-about eye trouble, has been cured in London. The cure is the first known to have been recorded.

It has meant a new life for a fourteen-year-old boy, and if the success of the treatment becomes established it will mean that hundreds of men now rejected by the Navy and the railway companies because of colour blindness may be given a second chance to enter these jobs.

The cure has been achieved by Mr. W. P. Foster-Smith, a distinguished naturopath and principal of the Natural Therapy Institute, Lancaster-gate, London, W.

The boy he cured is Alec Silkstone, of College-rise, Maldenhead. From the age of five Alec has wanted to be an admiral.

He used to beg his parents to take him to the river or the sea so that he could see ships and go over them. He spent all his pocket-money on going to see films about the sea.

MADE HISTORY

To-day Alec is a sailor boy in the training ship Arcturion, and has already made naval history.

He is the first boy to have been rejected by the ship as a recruit owing to congenital colour blindness, to have been cured, and then to have been passed as fit.

It was because Alec went so bitterly when rejected that the Arcturion examiners, who had heard of Mr. Foster-Smith's work, decided to give the boy an outside chance of entering the Navy.

After six months' treatment Alec was able to pass with ease the rigid colour tests imposed by the examiners. To his joy, he was drafted to the Arcturion at Upnor, Kent, the same day.

Mr. Foster-Smith's treatment started with a blood test which enabled him to readjust the boy's entire body. In a colour-blind person the thousands of tiny rods and cones in the retina of the eye lack the elasticity with which they should stretch out in response to colour waves.

THOSE REJECTED

By dieting, radium ray treatment, and manipulation of the vertebrae in the neck, activity was gradually restored to the boy's eye nerves. He became "colour conscious."

Figures published by the Medical Research Council record that 10 per cent. of all naval recruits are rejected because of colour vision defects. Of these 6 per cent. are "gross" cases.

Home on leave, Alec told a press representative at Maldenhead:

"At school I wasn't very good at painting because I confused colours. When I was examined for the Arcturion they found I was confusing red with green, grey and bluish-green with green, brown and yellowish-brown with red, and violet with blue."

"Mr. Foster-Smith put me on a diet of no white bread, no white rice, no white tea for breakfast. I had to eat rice and lemon juice first thing every morning and plenty of salads, grated carrots and cucumbers with the skin on."

WONDERFUL

"Every week I took home with me colour diagrams which I had to keep on copying as an exercise. I filled four big drawing books with them."

"At last I discovered I could get all my colours right. I have already earned a good-conduct stripe and play boss in the ship's band. I am longing to go to sea in a warship and see the world."

THE "PLAY" CAN GO ON IN THEATRE'S GAS SHELTER

If there's an air raid while the audience are watching a play at the Theatre Royal, Churchgate, Bolton, they'll have a great time.

"Cos in the cellars beneath they've made first-aid chambers, with tressle-beds, blankets and wonderful food. And that's not all, there are cards and dart boards, too!"

A whole "house" of theatre-goers will be able to stay in the chambers for about four hours, and there'll be a telephone, to keep in touch with developments above ground, and a series of guide lights showing the way from the auditorium to the cellars.

Water has already been laid on and four tons of sand is available for sandbags.

All entrances to the shelter can be sealed at a moment's notice, making the cellars, which have a roof of reinforced concrete, both gas and splinter-proof.

The staff of the theatre are all receiving A.R.P. instruction. The scheme has been carried out by Mr. William Southern, who is in charge of the theatre maintenance during the war.

Burglar Gets Damages

Vienna.

A burglar, who broke into a house here and was mauled by a watchdog has been awarded damages against the dog's owners. The burglar brought suit after serving a jail term, and won it because of a law which says that all dangerous dogs must be muzzled.

President Anthonio Smetona, president of Lithuania, whose country recently faced a crisis when Poland demanded that the border dispute be ended, after the killing of a Polish guard in a border clash.

NAVAL V.C. ON GALLIPOLI

Captain E. Unwin, a British naval officer who received the V.C. for his part in the landing operations at Gallipoli in 1915, told a congregation at Holy Trinity Church, Eitham, Kent, recently: "If the campaign had been properly managed Constantinople would have been taken, for no nation has sent forth to battle braver troops."

Captain Unwin, who at the time of the Gallipoli exploit was in command of the landing-vessel River Clyde, was speaking at the annual Gallipoli memorial service.

"At great sacrifice we landed, but we had not enough guns, and we do not know if some of them had been in the ark," he said. A few more guns and the men would have got there. What I saw of the fighting gave me great admiration for my country."

Twenty-five old soldiers of the West Riding Field Company Royal Engineers from Sheffield, who were in the River Clyde, also attended the service.

Mr. W. J. Jordan, High Commissioner for New Zealand, who brought a wreath of poppies from the Government and people of New Zealand, said: "Can we glorify in a terrible disaster as the Great War? Surely to-day we think of a world in which we shall no longer want to decorate our chests with medals because we took part in a war. Daily and weekly in our prayers we should say, 'Give us peace in our time, O Lord.'"

ZEEBRUGGE ANNIVERSARY

The annual service commemorating the raid on the Zebrugge Mole in 1918 was held in the Dockyard Church, Chatham, recently. About fifty ex-Royal Marines and naval societies attended a service in the Dockyard Church, which was followed by a visit to the military cemetery, where Commander MacKenzie, of the British War Graves Commission, laid a wreath on the memorial to those who lost their lives.

At the end of this ceremony (says Reuter) there was a procession to the Zebrugge monument, a tall column surmounted by a figure of St. George, which stands at the landward end of the Mole.

2.1/2d. Drink Turned Strong Men Pale

"Frankie The Bull," leader of New York's £250,000-a-year illicit liquor "ring," was found guilty in a New York Federal court of conspiracy to violate the tax laws.

Twenty-eight accomplices, including three New York policemen and one Federal tax inspector, were also found guilty. At least one murder is said to have occurred during the time the "ring" flourished.

"Frankie The Bull," otherwise Frank Giordano, a 46-year-old ex-convict, conceived the idea that "America wants a good 2½d. drink."

This drink, known as "King Kong," the five-cent Tarzan drink, was the sort of stuff to turn strong men pale.

It was a "Harlem-type" whisky, and apparently consisted largely of 50 per cent. of water added to high-power alcohol, with a dash of colouring matter.

The prosecution declared that 10,000 gallons of this liquor was dispensed weekly for three years. As a result the Government lost £600,000 in taxes.

The profit of the "ring" is said to have amounted to £200,000. The great "Bootleg Syndicate" rivaled the organisations which quenched New York's thirst in illicit speak-easies in Prohibition days.

"Short Ride" Too Long

Two 14-year-old Akron boys decided that they wanted to take a "short ride," so they hopped into an open gondola car of a long freight train. The train started, but did not slow down, and the adventurous pair wound up in Elyria's jail—55 miles away from home, where they were sheltered and fed by police until their return home.

Talk It Over With The Wife

What do you call your wife? Not when you are together, but when you are speaking of her to somebody else.

Do you say (1) "My wife"? (2) "The wife"? (3) "The missus"?

Mr. J. W. Marriott, educational expert, thinks all three are ugly. He said so when lecturing to a B.B.C. schools audience on the beauty and ugliness of words.

In fact, said Mr. Marriott, we have chosen some very unpleasant-sounding words to refer to our womenfolk. For example: aunt, sister, woman.

The Northcountrymen and the imaginative Irish have found more musical words: lassie, colleen.

The harsh sound of "wife" was brought to Mr. Marriott's notice by an Indian woman visitor to England. Mr. Marriott talked about place names and house names.

As examples of pleasant names he gave Havenna, Verona, and Nazareth; as examples of ugly ones, Blanton and Stutgart.

House names attacked by Mr. Marriott included "Cosy Cot" and "Byatube," which somebody in Golders Green has given to a house near the Underground station.

Among words which Mr. Marriott is rather keen on are "death" and "muzzled."

AID TO FARMERS

Cape Town. Since 1931 the State Treasury has paid out over £10,000,000 in assistance to farmers, according to a statement in Parliament. Of this amount £11,000,000 was for export subsidies.

Parliament is likely to rise on March 16. The General Election will, as announced, be held on May 18, the dissolution being on April 11.

EMPIRE NEWS

AN INDIAN PREMIER RESIGNS

After a long series of political setbacks and party manoeuvres, the Sind Premier, Sir Ghulam Hussain Hidayatullah, has resigned. A cabinet of three has been formed by Mr. K. B. Allabakh, who heads a combination of the Hindu and United parties.

When Sir Ghulam emerged from Government House he observed to waiting journalists: "We sent in our resignations in spite of our majority. We challenge any other party to form a Cabinet."

The immediate cause of the crisis was the Premier's defeat in the Premier's Legislative Assembly on Friday by a single vote on a motion of censure tabled by a member of the Congress party. The Congress drive was followed by reports of the defection from the Ministerial party to the Congress party of members of the United party and a number of Hindu independents.

Of the 56 active members of the Assembly the Ministerialists numbered 22, the United party 12, Hindus 10, Congress eight, Europeans two, and Independents two.

Calcutta Trade Setback.—Overseas trade of Calcutta has suffered a considerable setback in the past month, imports declining by one-third as compared with the preceding month, and exports also showing a decline, though in a smaller degree. A survey of business conditions in Mysore also reveals a general recession of values in the past month.

Mysore and Federation.—Members of the Congress party in Mysore have declined to co-operate in a State inquiry into the possibilities of federation of British Indian provinces and Indian States, as provided for in the Government of India Act, 1935.

South Africa

JUDGE KRAUSE TO RETIRE

The saving of the gold mines during the South African War is recalled by the impending retirement of Judge F. E. T. Krause, Judge President of the Orange Free State Provincial Division of the Supreme Court of South Africa since 1933.

Judge Krause was Civil Governor and commander of Johannesburg during the South African War, and when the town was on the point of falling into the hands of the British forces, a small section of the Republicans advocated dynamiting the mines.

On May 23, 1900, Gen. Koch, leader of the extremists, came to Johannesburg and threatened Krause with death if he opposed the dynamiting plan. Krause thereupon arrested him, and on May 31 surrendered Johannesburg to Lord Roberts.

Later Krause went to London, where he secured a prison sentence of two years for attempting to incite to murder following the discovery of a treasonable plot in South Africa in 1901. He was, however, readmitted to the Transvaal bar in 1905, the ruling being that his offence had been political.

Responsibility for War.—Mr. Fourie, Minister of Commerce and Industries referred to South Africa's policy in time of war in a speech at Worcester, Cape Province. He said that he was convinced that the Prime Minister, Gen. Hertzog, was sincere when he said that the Union would not be involved if her interests were not at stake, and, if they were, that Parliament would first be consulted. If this were not so, said Mr. Fourie, he would not remain a member of the United party.

Governor-General Goes North.—Sir Patrick Duncan, the Governor-General, and Lady Duncan left Cape Town to-day for the North. Sir Patrick goes to Pretoria and Lady Duncan to Kimberley on a private visit.

Naval Draft Arrives.—Over 100 naval ratings arrived at Town to-day in the Union-Castle liner Durban Castle, 8,240 tons, for service on the Africa station. They have for the most part served in the Navy less than a year, and this is their first overseas service.

Nine Killed in Mine.—Nine natives were killed and 13 injured to-day by a fall of rock in the Western Reef Mine at Potchefstroom.—Reuter.

Canada

Commenting on reports from London that he had chosen a house in Surrey for his future residence, Mr. R. B. Bennett, the Canadian Conservative leader, said: "The report is like Mark Twain's death—greatly exaggerated. I have not acquired any place in England or elsewhere."

A fortnight ago Mr. Bennett, who is 67, asked to be relieved of the leadership of the Conservative party.—Reuter.

GLADIATOR WINS A RACE AT LONG LAST

FAVOURITES FAIL IN MANY OF THE EVENTS

After five placed outings during the present season, Gladiator made amends at Happy Valley last Saturday by scoring the first win for Lady Northcote in the Mount Gough Handicap for "A" class China ponies. It was her Ladyship's initial success since making her debut as an owner at the Twelfth Extra race meeting held on December 4. His Excellency the Governor, Sir Geoffrey Northcote, was indeed quite happy to lead in the pony- ridden by Mr. Proulx and the trio were accorded with general "hats off" and the usual clapping of hands.

The other features of the Fourth Extra Race Meeting held last Saturday night were, with the exception of the highly Northcote's Gladiator and Mr. Li Tse-fong's Gold Coin, the failure of the hot favourites and as a result there were several lucky winners.

The first afternoon was $340.40 paid by Mr. W. H. S. Davis' Election Time with the assistance of a novice jockey, Mr. F. D. Colson, in the Tiamloam Handicap (second section) for the China ponies. Undoubtedly this was the biggest dividend of the year, eclipsing Sea Dragon's figure of $260.20 for a win in the Tytam Handicap (second section) for subscription stallions of this year.

Mr. T. W. Chattey, who is still in the novice class, ran a good second in the Tiamloam Handicap (second section) for the China ponies and this rider, from Fenling handed out $70.10 for a place to the delight of 30 staunch supporters.

The attendance of the general followers of the turf was not up to the usual mark, but nevertheless the two pari-mutuel counters were kept busy and the first prize of the cash sweep in the last race was $4,293.52, the cost of the ticket being a dollar.

Racing itself was not devoid of close finishes and the judicious allotment of the poundage was in certain measure responsible for the general upsets.

Strange as it may be, the following stalwart jockeys, Messrs. D. Black, C. Encarnacao and H. C. Pih did not steer a winner, but Messrs. A. W. Raymond and A. F. Colson each scored a double. The last named rider was in great form on Election Time and Tribute, the former pony giving Mr. Colson his first win at Happy Valley.

Contrary to expectation, Mr. E

Contrary to expectation, Mr. Encarnacion took out Old Bag, belonging to Mrs. Stanton, instead of Mr. A. W. Raymond in the opening event, the Mount Gough Handicap for "A" class China ponies over six furlongs, but the change did not help matters as Lady Northcote's Gladiator was too good to be caught, napping and won by a clear margin of two and a half lengths. His excellent collector, the Governor arrived long before the first saddling and it was a great pity that Lady Northcote's was not present to witness the running of her racer. The first to break through was Gladiator, the ably supported by Mr. Froude, and then immediately followed by his rival, one Old Bag. Rounding the bend, the latter got on level terms until the distance post was reached, but thereafter Gladiator drew away without any trouble and won as he liked. It was a fast run, the time being clocked at 1.25 1/2, exactly a second slower than the present record of 1.24 held by Mr. T. E. Pearce's King's Warden.

The first certainty to go v

The first certainty to go wrong was seen in the Charters Towers Handicap for "B" class Australasian ponies over a mile, when my fancy Lucky Lad (a hot favourite) finished nowhere, but I was glad that my second choice, Home Brew, ran a home ahead of the first appearance of Home Brew's of runbers and it was hardly a fathom why he was neglected in the pari-mutuel. He paid $12 1/2 in a place and it was certainly a lot of money. At any rate there was a good turn out of 13, but after Saturday's contest I was fully convinced that the youngsters of this year were no match against the old season ponies. I am afraid that Annabell has got into the bad habit of placing the goat. At the Easter meeting in the Calliope Handicap over 1 1/2 furlongs, Annabell ran second to the field which placed the gate well released and last Sunday she slipped on the same spot. Funtun should take a note of this. I am tired of his win. Home Brew, has been ordered by the classification sub-committee to rejoin the brigade.

Election Time Hands Out $341.40 For Win

As was anticipated, the best race of the afternoon was in the Talmorshian Handicap (first section) for "D" class China ponies over a mile and there was a tremendous shout when the saddle cloth number of Election Time was placed first in the frame and paid $341.40 for a win. The mare was ridden by a novice Mr. Colson, who took advantage of the 5 lbs. allowance, but it seemed that this was overlooked by the experts. With a good start and the order of running from the north gate was Cuban Love, Final Triumph, Dekko, Dor-rachito, Election Time and the rest following in the rear. It was a fast pace for the first half-a-mile, the time being 1:26 3/4, but after passing the rock, Final Triumph was leading with Dekko, Election Time, Salvage Master and Valorous about two lengths away. Entering the home straight there were several positional changes, but as the stand neared the distance it could be seen that Election Time, who came on the outside berth, was causing some anxiety to Final Triumph and Dekko. At this juncture Valorous was also going strong on the rails. Salvage Master and Dor-rachito were lagging and were thus in the spongers' line, causing the public entrance. Election Time, Dekko, Final Triumph and Valorous tore down the last 100 yards to a grand finish. After a few minutes of deliberation, Election Time secured the third prize of $100.00. The half-length separated Dekko and the two third ponies, Final Triumph and Valorous, who were locked together. I was very much impressed with Mr. Colson, who rode a well-timed race from the back and he should be commended for his cleverness in weighing out at Happy Valley. Golden Cow, who was heavily backed, finished among the "Also Runs" while Salvage Master (second favourite) did not run too well with five pounds under the scale light. Pleasant (third favourite) weighed out at six pounds over the allotment and he was never in the picture.

Fast Race In Mount Davis Handicap

Following up the thrill, Mr. Lip Kuying made no mistake on Lancaster. Lass in the Mount David Handicap (first section) over a short sprint from the 1½ mile post and the grey mare beat the handicapper by annexing the event by many lengths. Her time for the trip for the mile was covered in 1.07, the time being exactly one four-fifths seconds outside of the record of 1.05½ held by Oak Bay. The running of Scenic View (second) was an opener while Amberley, who was leading at the head of the home display, gave a very disappointing display by coming in last. There was some heavy wagering on Just in Time (Mr. C. Encarnacao) who was backed to the tune of 1,445 tickets (representing $7,225) and the blacks (was among the tall end and it was no more of a gamble for a printing event and furthermore there were 11 starters.

After winning a short distance event at Macao, Tribute, with the assistance of Mr. Colson, showed the betting public again that he was a speedy merchant, but the pony only just managed to snatch the lead by half-a-length in the "Hunckbacks" Handicap. In my opinion Cppu Gomorin (Mr. H. Botelho), who had a pull of the lead against Tribute was late in coming out of the race and even then he finished a good second. Charybdis and Fel Ying put up a poor show.

The surprise packet was Brutus (Mr. Hroulek) in the Canterbury Handicap for "C" class Australian ponies when the best gelding was left standing at the release of the barrier. He was left with so much ground to make up that it was possible for him to secure a place and let the public down very nicely. Violet Queen seemed to really know her old form and there was no "pull" about her success which paid $1.40 for a win. Another pony, which went well, was Snowy River, but he finished a good third, but Disappointment Bay, who failed to get a place, was a bad fourth.

The surprise packet was Brutus (Mr. Proulx) in the Canterbury Park Handicap for "C" class Australian ponies when the bay gelding was left standing at the release of the barrier. He was left with so much ground to make up that it was impossible for him to secure a place badly. Violet Queen seemed to regain her old form and there was no "fluke" about her success. She paid $61.40 for a win, and Snowy River, which went well, was good third, but Discovery Bay, who failed to get a place, was a bad fourth.

Public Shows Fine Sense Of Judgment

There was a last minute rush for Gold Coin to win the Talmoshan Handicap (second section) for "D" class Class 3 horses over a mile and inch. Initially this event was the second leg of the daily double. It was impossible to understand why there were 1,045 chances taken on this pony and the second favorite was Tempest, who had 337 backers. There was no justification in the future to be placed in Gold Coin, for the horse has had, prior to this running, a sequence of four unplanned outings at Happy Valley whereas Tempest, who was placed twice at the Easter session, was considered by a minority. However, it has been difficult on many an occasion to gauge the taste of public money on certain runners, but as it was, Gold Coin turned up to annex the Talmoshan Handicap by three good lengths and naturally it astounded everybody when the dividend was only $12.10 for a win. Being a favorite contender, Estover was backed by six punters, who were out for big money and a grey representative from Miami finished second. Had he passed the wire first, Estover would have returned over $1,600 for a win.

C. V. Grimmett, famous Australian bowler, in an article published by the "Melbourne Herald," says that the "body-line" attack by England's fast bowlers during the 1932-33 tour was quite fair.

"It succeeded," he says, "chiefly because of faulty footwork on the part of our batsmen. When they were hit they had only themselves to blame."

behind New Star and Potentate. He was, however, leading the pack until the $\frac{1}{2}$ mile beam was reached, but after that he dropped back and then rallied again in the home run. Credit must be given to Mr. S. W. Tang on the winner, New Star, for the jockey nursed his mount to a nicety. It is interesting to relate that New Star was not always in the limelight under the charge of Mr. Relyd, but since the return of the animal to the original owners, Kong Bros., the bay gelding has been placed in the last five outings with two wins and three seconds to his credit.

Jungle Jim was certainly a "wash-out" in the last event, the Mount Davis Handicap (second section) for "C" class China raters from the 14-mile post. It was his first appearance in this section from "B" standard and even with a deduction of 5 lbs. for jockey allowance, he was never in real danger. It was learned after the race that Mr. Gregory, the jockey was figuring to graduate on Jungle Jim, but the pony declined to please him.

London, Apr. 5.
In "The Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" a fortnight ago, I drew attention to the surprised concern which had been created in the United States over the decision of the Lawn Tennis Association to support the proposal for making the Davis Cup a biennial instead of an annual competition.

The question, which has a fundamental bearing on the organisation of lawn tennis throughout the world, and may conceivably even effect the future of Wimbledon, is to come up for discussion and voting in London on June 30, when the delegates from 30 Davis Cup nations will assemble for their annual conference.

That America, who founded the International team championship in 1900, and have watched its worldwide development with fatherly pride ever since, are perplexed by the attitude adopted by the British governing body, is shown by the official letter which has just been sent out to the various competing countries. From this communication I quote some of the salient passages.

While fully aware of the difficulties that have arisen in the conduct of the competition in the European zone during the last 10 years, the American Association does not consider they are sound enough to change a structure which stands as a solid and a bulwark to "a leading international sport and to the most universally played game in the world."

They have never offered, nor do they offer now, any objection to the solution of European zone problems by the European Davis Cup nations themselves, but they are unanimously opposed to any interruption of its annual decision. Here are some of their reasons.

NO OBLIGATION TO CHALLENGE

No nation is under any obligation to challenge. "If in any year a nation does not desire to challenge that is no reason why those who want to compete should be denied the right to do so. We regard it of great importance that liberty of action shall remain with each country to

"It is frequently the case that the next year may seem particularly opportune for various reasons but, if the competition were on a biennial basis, it would undoubtedly happen that the opportunity could not be seized."

The Americans contend that the change would undoubtedly weaken public interest. "Holding the competition every other year would mean that for only one or five months every two years the international struggle for the Cup would be brought to the attention of the public and then a period of a year and half or more would elapse during which interest would decline."

The average number of years devoted by players to the Davis Cup is short—probably not over five years. "The proposal, if adopted, would cut that period in half, which would not fail to act as a deterrent to the incentive to players to improve and maintain their game." The scarcity of playing for his country

Australians Flog Cambridge Bowling Mercilessly

The Australian cricket tourists made another mammoth score in their match against Cambridge University. After compiling 541 against Worcester, 679 for seven wickets against Oxford and 590 for five against Leicester, the tourists have now hit up 708 for five against the Light Blues.

A. L. Hassett made his third successive three-figure score and his highest innings of the tour by scoring 225 not out, giving a masterly display of batting. He was at the wickets for 260 minutes and hit 35 boundaries.

C. L. Badcock also shone, hitting up 186, which included a six and 29 fours.

In their fourth wicket partnership, Hassett and Badcock put on 276 runs in 185 minutes.

Yesterday, Fingleton scored 111 and Bradman 137.

At close of play to-day, Cambridge had made 73 for the loss of two wickets. Their first innings realized 120.—Reuter.

It will thus be seen that the tourists have scored a total of 2,618 in their four matches to date for the amazingly high average of 24 runs per wicket. Their bowlers—Worcester by an innings and 77 runs; Oxford by an innings and 487 runs; and Leicester by an innings and 163 runs.

* Not Out.

New York, May 12.
Adverse weather conditions again caused the curtailment of both the National and American Baseball League programmes today.

New York Giants, leaders in the National section, were not engaged, but Chicago Cubs, second in the League table, won their match against Brooklyn Dodgers. Pitching for the Cincinnati Reds, Dehringer blanked out the Boston Braves although he allowed them six hits. The Reds themselves forced four men home on only five hits.

In the American League, New York Yankees lost their first match for several days when they were beaten by Cleveland Indians. It was a tight game and was decided by the odd run in five. The Indians scored three runs from four hits, and the Yankees managed to get only two runs although they had five "safeties" including a home run by Lou Gehrig.

Washington Senators improved their position with a close win over Detroit, 4-3.

The matches New York Giants v. St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies v. Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League, and the matches Chicago White Sox v. Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns v. Philadelphia Athletics in the American League were not played owing to the cold.

Wade Rawlins, novelist, roughing it on the Pacific Coast, is stranded when his car falls into a ravine. He goes to the Kilbourne house to ask to use the phone. He is mistaken for a tramp and as Mrs. Kilbourne has a hobby of taking in tramps and the chauffeur has disappeared that morning with all the silver, he is engaged to drive against his will. After a few exciting and humorous situations he wants to stay in the strange household. It will furnish him with good copy.

Chapter Six

Wade was exhilarated rather than tired from the mad and varied thrills which had crowded his day, but as he was not to be on call that night and there was nothing to do, he took off his uniform and put on the pajamas, lounging robe and slippers which the butler had left in his room. He was just ready to go to bed when he heard some one drive up. He couldn't see who it was, but who over it was seemed to be having trouble. He was in the garage when Kane came in hurriedly, ran to the phone and dialed a number.

"Betty," he asked and his voice was soft and strained at the name.

"Everybody asleep, I tell you I can't wake father up. He'd be so furious I never would get anything out of him. I promise you I will get it. I'm not one to wobble, but, Betty, I can't right now, but I know nobody forced me, but—"

When the driver saw the big roll of bills Mr. Kilbourne drew from his pocket, he said the amount was fifteen dollars. Mr. Kilbourne held out the roll to him but before the driver could take it, Wade stopped him. He took the bills, put them back in Mr. Kilbourne's pocket and leaned over to look at the meter. From his pocket he drew out three dollars more than the driver's three dollars — fifteen cents less than that thing reads and three dollars more than you deserve. Now he on your way. I'm handling this."

The driver gave Wade a look not exactly on the friendly side. He was the only other answer he made was to start his motor and rush down the drive, with his hand on the horn.

"Quell! Folks trying to get some rest!" roared Mr. Kilbourne.

It was then a light flashed out from an upstairs room. Some one came to the window. Wade managed to push Mr. Kilbourne into a clump of bushes where he would be invisible. He looked at his uniform. "Don't be alarmed, Mrs. Kilbourne," Wade said. "Some one who has been drinking."

"That's very thoughtful of you," said Mrs. Kilbourne. "I should think you lived here, but I got rid of him. Goodnight."

He waited until the light had gone out, then helped Mr. Kilbourne to come out from his hiding place. His troubles were not over. One minute Mr. Kilbourne would berate him and say he needed no assistance, the next he would say he

Edinburgh's 'Unhappy' Women

The Causes of Their Dejection

By LEWIS SPENCE

I THINK it is time that someone posed the question: "Why do Edinburgh women, for the most part, look so unhappy?" Never have I been in a city where the female part of the population so strongly gave the impression of inward melancholy or secret sorrow.

The procession of sad and dejected women's faces one sees in our streets is such as to arouse anxiety in a philanthropic breast regarding the heartburnings and vexations which must underlie them.

Those who deny that the great majority of Edinburgh women appear very triste and discontented cannot be very perspicacious. And to those whom from their facial expressions to be suffering from more or less acute distress, must be added an ample contingent who seem themselves or with society at large, as we have seen, to be too exclusively devoted to the English and French. We are a people of dull dogs, and such pleasures as we have are too exclusively devoted to the English and French. We are a people of dull dogs, and such pleasures as we have are too exclusively devoted to the English and French.

Ravages of Grief

But although I can remember quite a number of such reproachful antiquities (they were always sighing thing of a nature-spirit, a fay, a sylph, and we in Scotland have and quoting texts) I am rather surprised to see much of the same kind transformed her by our neglect and addition to pursuits exclusively masculine into a badly warped edition of ourselves. The old civility of faces as they must drop their heads and peeping out from the latest fluffy veil.

What dire affliction lies behind these dismal looks? (If that's not a couple of feet too tall, except, perhaps in Scotland, the hobbling line in blank verse of the sufficiently severe and didn't require more antique kind.) Or, to put it in modern parlance, what's eating these dames? Do our wives, sisters and daughters still maintain the fin de siècle notion that in order to be "respectable" they must drop their heads and peeping out from the latest fluffy veil.

What we have to do—no easy task—is to throw off the wretched grimace which overshadows Scottish life as a whole, to restore that ancient spirit of innocent joy which Scotland once possessed before it was victimized by a sour-faced puritanism which dried up the springs of our native gaiety. I notice that our working people have already succeeded in doing this to a great extent. Why should not the rest of us?

Unappreciated Privilege

But any man who doesn't properly appreciate his womanhood and find an enjoyment in their society is an inferior kind of man, and the man who does not enjoy her society and endures her with chivalrous affection is a barbarian.

For all the Scot's manning about his "bonnie Marys" and "sma' Jans" he is apt to neglect them after marriage. He doesn't seem to realize how high a privilege it is to share the life of a good and intelligent woman.

But the thing lies deeper than that. The man who spends all his leisure knocking a white ball about and who afterwards mopped up, six or seven times a day, in the whisky, the man who does not social contact in which the sexes mingle. Indeed, in this respect, it is almost Oriental. It is still more manner of Greek tragedy. In plain language, I would best him with his beautiful nibbler.

I don't deny that it's up to the woman to make things cheerful at home. If a man is met of an evening by a complexion of patient suffering he'll begin making another life-man, and I'm afraid our sisters, our cousins and our aunts are guilty of this graveyard pose in many Edinburgh homes.

But what I do add is that their unhappy traditions predispose them to this hereditary mournfulness. You can't din into a people that they're "the right ones" and "the elect" and all that for countless generations without turning most of them into potential undertakers, and women, much more so than men, are markedly amenable to environment.

Snappy Ones

I have said nothing so far about the shrewishness and snappiness of a certain type of Edinburgh lady, because I believe it to be a result, and concomitant, of the miserable conditions which I have already enumerated.

Sports Girl

Hockey girls, golfing girls, girl football fans! Well, I mustn't be unkind, but frankly, I deplore them. I don't like to see a woman looking every inch a man except for an inch or two of skirt. It seems to me as unnatural as a young fellow in a beachbelly's outfit would certainly appear.

Woman is a creature of joy, something of a nature-spirit, a fay, a sylph, and we in Scotland have and quoting texts) I am rather surprised to see much of the same kind transformed her by our neglect and addition to pursuits exclusively masculine into a badly warped edition of ourselves. When one thinks of the fact that not millions but millions of microbes and bacteria are living in a neglected mouth, that is, in a mouth that has not been daily antiseptically cleansed, it seems nothing less than disgusting to allow such distraction to continue in our mouths and teeth. It is simply incredible that there still exist many educated people who refuse to realize that it is an absolute necessity not only for the preservation of the teeth, but also for the general health, to free their mouth daily from the bacteria which destroy their teeth.

Odol arrests most thoroughly and effectively all fermentation and decomposition in the mouth. Everyone who uses Odol regularly every day insures the greatest protection for his teeth and mouth that scientific discovery has up to the present time made possible. Odol is daily used by thousands of doctors and dentists themselves.

INTEGRITY OF CHINESE CUSTOMS UNCERTAIN

Japan Side-Tracks Definite Promises

London, May 12. During Question time in the House of Commons to-day, the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Mr. R. A. Butler, disclosed that it had been found impossible during the recent negotiations with Japan to secure a definite undertaking that no change was contemplated in the international character of the Chinese Customs.

The Japanese Foreign Minister, Mr. Koki Hirota, had, however, given an oral assurance that the Japanese Government had every intention of maintaining the integrity of the Chinese Customs to the fullest extent permitted under the present abnormal conditions.

Mr. Butler declared there was nothing in the recent arrangement with Tokyo to justify the suggestion that the British Government had acquiesced in Japanese interference with the Chinese Customs administration.

On the contrary, the British Government had repeatedly impressed upon the Japanese Government their interest in maintaining in every respect the authority and integrity of the Customs service, and a uniform tariff for all China, applied impartially to all nations.—Reuter.

Caring For Refugees In Great Britain

Britons From China, Austria Don't Need Assistance

London, May 12. Colonel Harry Day, Labour Member for Southwark Central, asked in the House of Commons to-day whether the British Government considered making arrangements with the Local authorities for financially assisting necessitous Britons repatriated from countries where political upheaval had forced evacuation.

The questioner instanced China and Austria as countries from which many Britons had been driven by force of circumstances, and desired to know whether arrangements made for evacuees from Spain would also be made for refugees from these two countries.

Sir Kingsley Wood, the Minister for Health, replied in the negative. He added that there was no need at present to consider special arrangements with respect to Britons from countries other than Spain.—Reuter.

EIRE FLOATING LOAN TO PAY BRITISH DEBT

Dublin, May 12. Mr. Sean MacEntee, Minister of Finance in the Government of Eire, introducing his seventh budget in the Dail, announced to-day he expected to open the list for a £10,000,000 loan to take care of the payment to be made to Great Britain, within a fortnight. He had no doubt it would be received with enthusiasm.

£600,000 additional would be required for defence, largely for equipment, making the total defence bill £2,272,000.

There will be no new taxes. Revenue is estimated at £31,505,000 and expenditure £31,501,000.—Reuter.

Britons Can't Tell Which Comes First—Chicken or Egg?

London, May 12.

Questioned in the House of Commons by Mr. R. De La Bère, Conservative Member for the Evesham Division of Worcestershire, on the subject of the employment of Japanese chicken sexers instead of British labour, Mr. Ernest Brown, the Minister for Labour, said the Ministry of Agriculture did not consider that there were sufficient qualified Britons able to obtain the necessary speed and accuracy for commercial practice.

Amid laughter, Mr. Brown disclosed that the National Poultry Council had arranged chicken sexing tests in 1936 and none of the Britons who took the test were able to pass.

Replying to another question by Sir Adrian Ballie, Conservative Member for Tonbridge (Kent), the Minister said there were eighteen Japanese chicken sexers at present employed in Great Britain, with permission to receive wages of a sovereign a week with board and lodging.

A substantial fee was also paid with respect to each man, to the Japanese Chicken Sexing Association, through which their services were obtained.—Reuter.

Persistent reports received here state that Nantungchow, on the north bank of the Yangtze River opposite Changshu in Kiangsu, and Jukao to the north, are both surrounded by Chinese.

All bridges along the highways leading to the two towns have been damaged, rendering Japanese support from outside extremely difficult.—Central News.

U.S. COMMODORE GOES TO AMOY IN MARBLEHEAD

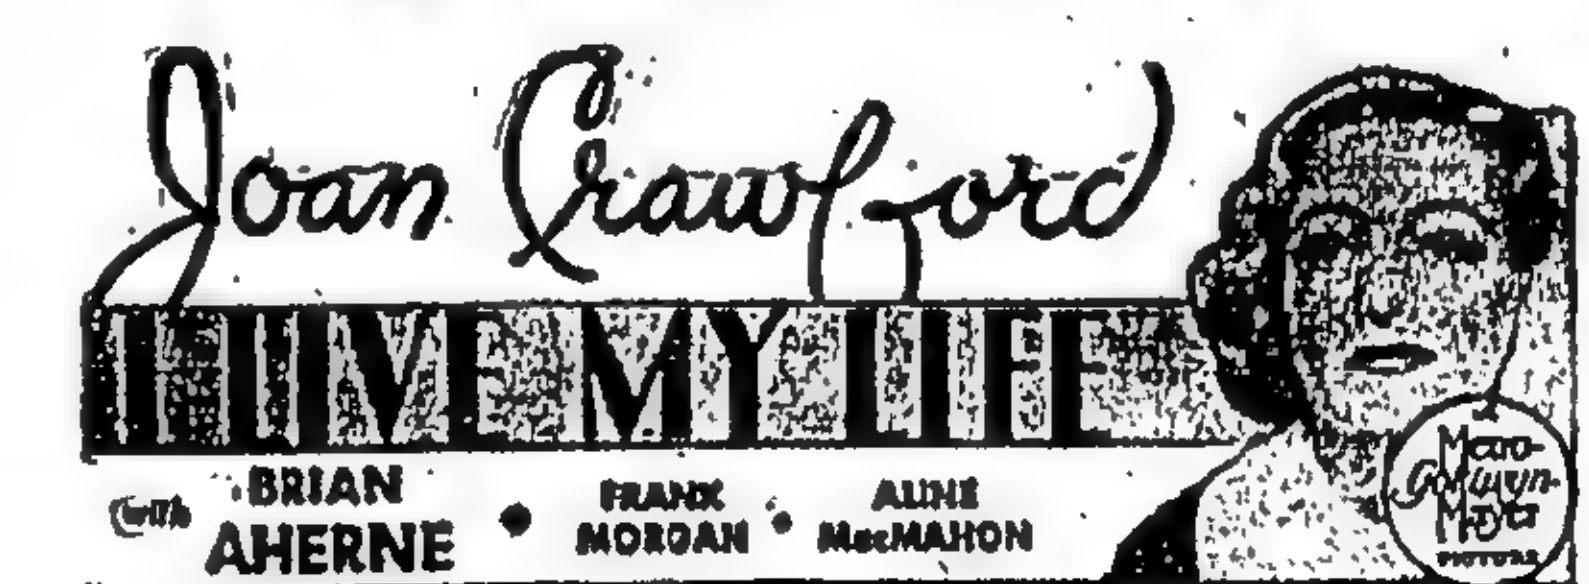

American concern for the safety of United States nationals in Amoy is further indicated by the announcement this morning that the U.S.S. Marblehead, en route from Manila, called in at Hongkong, and took aboard Commodore Stapler, commander of the American South China patrol.

The warship left this morning for Amoy, the Commodore's flag having been transferred from the Mindanao to the Marblehead.

Commodore Stapler should have sailed by the Carthage yesterday for Shanghai, to take over a new appointment with the United States naval headquarters in China, but the new developments in Amoy necessitated a change of plans, and Commodore Stapler, now on his way to Amoy, will retain command of the South China patrol for the time being.

CHINESE REPORT GAINS AT AMOY

AMERICANS SAFEGUARD INTERESTS

Cruiser Calls Here To Take Commadore To Trouble Area

Shanghai, May 13.
A Chinese communique from Amoy states that after counter-attacking, the Chinese have driven the Japanese toward Kiangtong, on the northern side of Amoy Island. The communique adds that the Chinese are recovering lost ground.—Reuter.

U.S. COMMODORE GOES TO AMOY IN MARBLEHEAD

American concern for the safety of United States nationals in Amoy is further indicated by the announcement this morning that the U.S.S. Marblehead, en route from Manila, called in at Hongkong, and took aboard Commadore Stapler, commander of the American South China patrol.

The warship left this morning for Amoy, the Commadore's flag having been transferred from the Minnanso to the Marblehead.

Commadore Stapler should have sailed by the Carthage yesterday for Shanghai to take over a new appointment with the United States naval headquarters in China, but the new developments in Amoy necessitated a change of plans, and Commadore Stapler, now on his way to Amoy, will retain command of the South China patrol for the time being.

Fighting In Hills

Shanghai, May 13.
Japanese blue jackets are guarding the city of Amoy, a Japanese naval spokesman said here this morning, which is now quiet. Mopping-up operations are being continued in the outlying hills, where 500 Chinese soldiers have been killed. Fighting is practically at an end, he added.

Meanwhile, Chinese soldiers in uniform are forbidden to enter Kulang, the spokesman declared.—Domei.

Recapture Of Haiyen Near

Kinhwa, May 13.
The recapture of Haiyen, east of Haining, on Hangchow Bay, which is besieged by the Chinese, is believed imminent. The west, south and north gates of the town are reported to have been occupied.

On May 10, a lone Japanese warship steamed near Haiyen from Chappo, to the north-east, and opened fire.—Central News.

Relations May Be Strained

U.S. Attitude May Anger Germany
Washington, May 13.
The prevailing view in diplomatic circles here is that relations between the United States and Germany appear to be heading for an even more difficult period than before.

This is due to the emphatic protest by the new American Ambassador, Mr. Charles G. Wilson, regarding the expropriation of property of American Jews in Austria, the refusal of the United States Government to sell helium to Germany, and the announcement of plans for the formation of an international committee to investigate the situation in Germany.

JAPANESE ARREST BRITON IN S'HAU

Jumped Over Barbed Wire Barricade

Shanghai, May 13.
A prominent British resident of Shanghai, Mr. E. S. Wilkinson, from Darlington, England, was arrested and detained by Japanese sentries in the Hungjiao area to-day.

Mr. Wilkinson was held on a charge of jumping over a barbed wire barricade into the Japanese area. According to a Japanese spokesman, the place where Mr. Wilkinson entered the area was the same spot where a Chinese made a leap a few days ago and was shot.

Mr. Wilkinson, who is a keen naturalist, was on a bird hunting expedition.

Negotiations are proceeding between the Japanese and British authorities for his release.—Reuter.

N.C.D.N. WRITER HELD

Shanghai, May 13.
Alleged to have jumped over a Japanese military barbed wire barrier, Mr. E. S. Wilkinson, "Country Diary" writer for the North China Daily News, was being detained by the Japanese military authorities in the Hungjiao area, west of the International Settlement, a Japanese Embassy spokesman announced this morning.

The barrier, the spokesman said, had been thrown around a "closed area."

"A day or two ago," the spokesman continued, "a Chinese doing likewise was shot dead by a Japanese sentry."

Mr. Wilkinson, who is charged with having entered the area at about 7 o'clock this morning, was being detained, the spokesman said, on the suspicion that his "net was connected with that of the Chinese."

The Briton, the spokesman said, was being questioned.—Domei.

Nazis Sign Treaty With Manchukuo

Another Stone In Anti-Comintern Structure

Hankow, May 13.
Officially confirming the signing of the treaty of amity in Berlin on Thursday between representatives of the Manchukuo and the German Governments, Mr. Tsai Yun-sheng, president of the Foreign Affairs Bureau of the Manchukuo government, stressed in a statement here last night that the present accord contributes to the general strengthening of the common moral cause between Germany, Italy, Japan and Manchukuo, all adhering to the anti-Comintern front.

Halling the conclusion of the new treaty, Mr. Chang Ching-hui, Premier, it was specially significant coming at the present time when Manchukuo has been formally recognised by the Italian Government as well as by the Franco Government in Spain.

Dr. Karl Knoll, German trade Commissioner in Manchukuo, also emphasised that the new treaty demonstrated before the world the mutual friendship and respect of the nations concerned, hinting that Berlin may shortly send directions regarding legation appointments.—Domei.

Mexico's Sop To Foreign Oil Investors

Mexico City, May 13.
President Cardenas has announced that the Mexican Government has offered to pay foreign companies whose oilfields have been expropriated, the proceeds of sixty per cent. of oil exported from the country, over a period of ten years.

The balance of the oil will be used for external needs.

General Cardenas added that the offer did not necessarily represent the final amount of indemnity, which would be determined on the basis of a report by experts.

The President indicated that on no account could the decision of the Mexican Government regarding expropriation be reversed.—Reuter.

Japanese Plane Hunts Record

Tokyo, May 13.
The Japanese long-distance monoplane, belonging to the aeronautical institute of the Tokyo Imperial University, which made a forced landing on Tuesday due to its automatic pilot being out of order, made its second bid for world fame this morning, leaving the Musanai airfield, in Chiba Prefecture, at 4.55 a.m. It took off on a mission to hunt for a world record.

LANDLORDS FORCE TENANTS OUT WITH LAW FOR WEAPON

"The only alternative appears to be a tent in Statue Square, if I may say so," remarked Mr. S. W. Clark at the Summary Court this morning when an action for ejection was brought against him by his landlord, Lau Yik-cheuk.

Defendant was the tenant of 134, Kennedy Road, top floor, for which he paid, it was stated, $90 a month. He was given a notice to quit on March 23, expiring on April 30.

Before giving his reason for remaining in the premises, defendant raised the question of identity, saying he was not sure his landlord was Mr. Lau.

Mr. F. X. D'Almada, Jnr., who appeared for the plaintiff, said he could assure the Court Mr. Lau was the landlord.

Defendant: But the rent receipts bore the name of Tong Shing-yiu.

Mr. D'Almada: She is the agent.

Defendant: Has she a power of attorney? I think there should be reference to the landlord's name.

Mr. Justice R. E. Lindesay: That I am afraid, is a bit of a quibble. It could not possibly afford you any defence.

Mr. D'Almada: Defendant has written letters to my client and that shows he knows who is the landlord.

Defendant: I understand Tong is the wife of Lau. Is it possible that the wife could be the agent?

His Lordship: Certainly.

NO SUITABLE PLACE

Defendant: My reason for still being there is that I have found it absolutely impossible to find any accommodation suitable for myself and family of four people. I have documentary evidence from all the real estate agents showing a negative response to my request for accommodation. I have also advertised but have received no satisfactory response. The only alternative appears to be a tent in Statue Square, if I may say so.

His Lordship: I should have thought you could have found a better place than Statue Square.

Mr. D'Almada: The first notice to quit was given in January. There has been an extension of time and my client requires the premises urgently for his own use. I must say defendant has offered to pay a 40 per cent. increase, which my client refused.

Defendant: If the plaintiff requires the premises for his own use, how is it that in the month of January several people, who were obviously not his relatives, called round and inspected the flat? I have proof that they did.

His Lordship: Whatever sympathy you have for your tenant, the Court here is to enforce the law. There must be judgment for plaintiff with costs and expenses.

Sub-Tenant At Mercy Of Principal

Landlords Seize Goods Though Rent Paid

A suggestion as to how sub-tenants could possibly protect themselves against principal tenants, who misappropriated the rent, was put forward by Mr. H. J. Armstrong, of the Summary Court this morning during the hearing of an application for the discharge of a warrant for distraint.

The claimant was Wong Hon-sing, who was a sub-tenant of 5 Shelley Street, second floor, against which a warrant for distraint was issued on May 5 on the application of the landlords, the Hongkong Fire Insurance Co., Ltd., for arrears of four months' rent at $35 a month. All the goods and chattels in the premises were seized.

Mr. Armstrong, who appeared for the sub-tenant, said he did not dispute that the goods seized in the rear cubicle belonged to the claimant, but he submitted that all the articles in the premises were in the apparent possession of the principal tenant, according to law.

It was stated that the principal tenant was Kan Chak, who, however, did not reside on the floor, which was divided into five cubicles. He appointed as agent, Lam Lok-koo, who lived in the front cubicle.

The claimant told the Court he had been living in the rear cubicle for the past six years and had paid the rent, $7.40, every month to Lam, who issued the receipt bearing the name of Kan.

NO REDRESS AGAIN

His Lordship: The law is clear. The sub-tenant is at the mercy of the principal tenant. There is no redress against the principal tenant.

INDUSTRY GIVING EVERY ASSISTANCE TO AUTHORITIES

Gradual Extension Of Emergency Instruction

The women of the Colony will shortly be asked to take an important part in air raid precautions for Hongkong by receiving instructions from qualified lecturers and by volunteering their services to the Government for special work, it was learned this morning.

The "Typhoon" type of siren was tested in the city of Victoria between 11-11.30 a.m. with a view to using it as an air raid alarm.

Wing Commander A. H. S. Steele-Perkins, Air Raid Precautions Officer, and Mr. W. R. Scott, Deputy Commissioner of Police (Acting), witnessed the tests which began in Hollywood Road but will be extended later in order to demonstrate the full capabilities of the instrument.

WHANGPOO SILTING UP AS POWERS QUARREL

Ocean-going Craft May Be Unable To Reach Shanghai

Shanghai, May 13.
Threats of a possible silting up of the Whangpoo River, preventing deep-draft vessels from calling at Shanghai, mounted to-day as the Whangpoo Conservancy Board and the Japanese Navy engaged in a jurisdictional dispute.

"All responsibility for the inconveniences suffered by the Powers" over the controversy was disclaimed by the Japanese Navy in a statement issued last night, expressing its "difficulty to understand the failure of the Conservancy Board to give a sincere reply" to a Japanese suggestion that dredging operations suspended since last August, be resumed.

Dredgers and other property of the Conservancy Board were seized by the Japanese Navy upon its occupation of Shanghai harbour in November last year.

"There is not the slightest doubt that the Whangpoo Conservancy Board, being an organ of the Nationalist Government, should be taken over by the Reformed Government," the statement said, pointing out that the Board's property, "now being held by the Imperial Navy, belonged to anti-Japanese elements."

"The recent suggestion made to the Commissioner of Customs and to the Consular Body, through the Japanese Consulate-General, that dredging operations should be resumed under an arrangement whereby the property should be loaned to the Navy conditions predicated by requirements for military and naval operations, was motivated by a friendly realization of the interest of various Powers in those operations," it noted.

The proposal, the statement declared, was never answered properly.

PROPOSAL REJECTED

The consultative board of the W.C.B. recently voted down a proposal to accept the Japanese suggestion on the grounds that the conservancy work was an international undertaking in which the Nationalist Government was the only party concerned.

For convenience, the "Typhoon" was mounted on a lorry. Three cylinders of compressed air were available and a first test was made at a pressure of 1,000 lbs. to the square inch. A passing motorist said he could not hear it from a street away but the officials are collecting reports of police officers at a number of points before coming to any decision.

Commander Steele-Perkins, asked if previous instruments had been found suitable, replied: "No. The difficulty is one of range and we have not yet found a siren that is suitable. Even in England and on the continent they have difficulties and the instruments vary with climatic conditions and with the surroundings, for instance whether the area is built up or open."

WILLING CO-OPERATION

As to air raids precautions generally, Commander Steele-Perkins said he had found a willingness on the part of those concerned, to co-operate with him.

"I have visited the railway, the electric and gas works, the broadcasting station, storage plants and (Continued on Page 4.)

STOP PRESS

BRITAIN WARNS GERMANY

London, May 13.
It has been disclosed that the British Ambassador to Berlin, Sir Cecil Henderson, called on Herr von Ribbentrop on Wednesday to convey a second warning that Nazi aggression in Czechoslovakia might involve Germany and Britain in war.

A Sudeten spokesman in Prague, replying this morning to a question as to whether Herr Henderson's visit to London had any political significance, said that a British friend of the German minorities close to the British Government desired to hear Herr Henderson's story. Herr Henderson is the leader of the Sudeten Germans.

"All I can say is that the people of England want to know the real truth about what is occurring in Czechoslovakia," he said.

"So far, they have heard only the Czech-German propaganda and the German propaganda."

Only Four Nations Refuse to Follow Britain

CHINESE DELEGATE STOUTLY DEFENDS LEAGUE PRINCIPLES

Majority Favours Free Action in Recognition Of Conquered Territory

Geneva, May 12.
Every country except four—Russia, China, New Zealand and Bolivia—aligned themselves at to-day's League Council session with the British theory that each nation should recover its liberty of action with regard to recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia.

At the close of the meeting the chairman stated the Council was not required to pronounce upon the question of principle and whatever line of action the Council took would not prejudice any action the League Assembly might take subsequently.

No vote or formal decision was necessary, each country being free to decide for itself.

The session was then declared closed, but the question will undoubtedly come up again before the Assembly in September when a vote will be taken and when the continued presence of Ethiopia in the League will be at stake.—Reuter.

Attacks British Proposal

Geneva, May 12.
The Council of the League of Nations will meet in public tomorrow to discuss the Chinese appeal, eloquently argued by Dr. Wellington Koo. He pointed out that the resolution passed by the League Assembly last year calling for assistance to China against Japanese aggression has not yet been carried out. He urged the Council to take effective measures to stop the Japanese campaign in China.

Dr. Koo attacked the British proposal, put forward by Lord Halifax, in connection with recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia.

Any step which might carry with it an indication of the employment of force as an instrument of policy in international affairs in order to be accepted need only be successful, he complained. Such a situation would prove an encouragement to the forces of aggression and in the end detrimental, and even dangerous, to the genuine cause of peace.

No Justification

The fact that numbers of League-member states had actually acted in contravention of the League resolutions was no justification that others should follow their example, as this would amount to putting a premium upon unilateral repudiation of obligations collectively undertaken.

For these reasons, he said warmly, if a decision were taken in the Council's name in the sense proposed,

SHIPS IN RADIO COMMUNICATION

The following ships are expected to be in wireless communication with Hongkong Radio to-day:

Sinkiang; Memnon; Shantung; Glenogle; Conte Biancamano; Mosang; Diomed; President Jefferson; President Harrison; Carthage; Aslan; Sirdhana; Halice; Hinasig; Apoc; Ping Wo; Kumsang; Wuehang; Taiyuan; Chukang; President Cleveland; Telena; Empress of Canada.

the Chinese Government would be unable to support it.

If, on the other hand, the present discussion was merely for the purpose of giving each member state represented on the Council an opportunity to declare its attitude upon the situation without prejudice to the principles of the Covenant or to the resolution affirming the principle of non-recognition of conquests, the Chinese Government would content itself by reserving its position with regard to the principles involved.—Reuter.

AMERICAN ATTITUDE UNALTERED

Not Affected By Anglo-French Statements

Washington, May 12.
The United States' attitude on the Ethiopian question remains unchanged, stated Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, in reply to questions whether there would be any revision of national policy as a result of the Anglo-French statements in the League of Nations Council to-day.

He added the United States would maintain its policy of non-recognition of territory gained by force or by violation of existing treaties. The United States did not intend to deviate from the basic principles governing international relations as outlined in Mr. Hull's statement of July 19, 1937.—Reuter.

Britons Can't Tell Which Comes First—Chicken or Egg!

London, May 12.
Questioned in the House of Commons by Mr. R. De La Bere, Conservative Member for the Evesham Division of Worcestershire, on the subject of the employment of Japanese chicken sexers instead of British labour, Mr. Ernest Brown, the Minister for Labour, said the Ministry of Agriculture did not consider that there were sufficient qualified Britons able to obtain the necessary speed and accuracy for commercial practice.

Amid laughter, Mr. Brown disclosed that the National Poultry Council had arranged chicken sexing tests in 1936 and none of the Britons who took the test were able to pass.

Replying to another question by Sir Adrian Bailie, Conservative Member for Tonbridge (Kent), the Minister said there were eighteen Japanese chicken sexers at present employed in Great Britain, with permission to receive wages of a sovereign a week with board and lodging.

A substantial fee was also paid with respect to each man to the Japanese Chicken Sexing Association, through which their services were obtained.—Reuter.

Intervening In Taxation Crisis

Brussels, May 12.
Following several days of political tension in Belgium, owing to disagreement among the Government parties over new taxation plans, three members of the Cabinet, belonging to the Catholic Party—the Ministers of Agriculture, of Justice and of Economy—have expressed a desire to resign.

The Prime Minister, M. Paul-Emile Janson, went to the Palace to consult with the King of the Belgians to-day, after His Majesty had flown back to Brussels from The Hague in the afternoon on account of the political situation.

After his audience with the King, M. Janson stated that the announcement that three members of the Cabinet had resigned was erroneous.—Reuter.

Teething without Tears

As soon as the first tiny tooth is due, give your baby 'OVALTINE' Rusks to bite and crunch. They will ensure his happiness and contentment throughout teething time.

Although not too hard for baby to eat and enjoy, 'OVALTINE' Rusks are just firm enough to give the biting exercise which helps so much to bring the teeth easily and comfortably through the gums and to ensure the correct formation of the mouth and jaws.

'OVALTINE' Rusks are made from pure unbleached wheaten flour in which all the nutritive elements are retained and the addition of a proportion of 'OVALTINE' makes them even more nourishing and delicious.

ANOTHER CASE

Mr. S. D. Sykes was also ordered to quit his premises, 534 Nathan Road, ground floor, on an action brought by his landlords, the Ka Chuen Land Estate.

It was stated that the premises were let to defendant at $38 a month and that the tenancy was duly terminated by notice to quit on March 18, expiring on April 30.

Defendant told the Court that he could not remove on April 30 as his son was then between life and death. He asked the wife of the caretaker, who collected the rent, for an extension and she said she would give him a reply the next day.

BOY WAS DYING

"On the afternoon of May 1," continued defendant, "she came along and said her husband asked me to see the solicitors. I could not shift even if I tried to find a cubicle, for my son got worse on that day and died the next."

His Lordship: Do you allege that you got permission to stay on?

Defendant: No. She told me to see the solicitors, but I couldn't owing to the condition of my son.

Why didn't you move out on April 30?—I couldn't because of the condition of my son and the fact that I could not find any house.

Mr. E. S. C. Brooks, who appeared for the plaintiffs, said defendant had been given two other notices, the first in December last year.

His Lordship: No action was taken in respect of the first notice?

Mr. Brooks: Unfortunately, my clients declined to rent.

REFUSED TO TAKE RENT
Defendant: I went up to pay the rent but they would not accept it and gave me a despatch.

His Lordship: I am not concerned with that. All I am concerned with is the notice in question.

Defendant: My son was taken ill on April 10 and gradually grew worse. I have asked the S.C.A. to mediate but they said they couldn't.

"You must move out at the end of the month," said His Lordship to defendant, and the latter was heard to reply that he had tried but could not find any house.

DOCTOR FINED

Assistant Attorney-General Testifies

Dr. S. S. Strahan was summoned before Mr. H. R. Butters at the Central Magistracy this morning on the complaint of Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney-General, for driving his car without due care and caution in Stubbs Road on April 23.

Giving evidence, Mr. Williams said that he was driving down Stubbs Road about 1.30 p.m. on April 23. There were two bends in the road above the junction of the junction of Stubbs and Barker Roads; these bends were separated by 120 to 140 feet approximately. "Witness was travelling at 20 miles per hour, and as he rounded the upper bend, observed a small Morris saloon car on its wrong side of the road, and in the act of passing a motor van. Both these vehicles were travelling up Stubbs Road, and were about midway between the bends.

Mr. Williams had to apply all brakes and pull up dead, and if he had not done so there would have been a collision. The driver of the Morris saloon was Dr. Strahan, and when witness first sighted him, he was approximately 50 feet away and abreast of the van.

Questioned by Dr. Strahan, Mr. Williams said his wife was with him at the time, and he had then told her that he would have to report the incident, as they both had a great fright.

Dr. Strahan, in evidence, said he remembered passing a motor van on the day in question, and had noticed a car slowing down. He had been in Mr. Williams' position many times before, but had not found it necessary to slow down. He had been following the motor van for some time and thought it was safe to pass. Mr. Williams, said Dr. Strahan, could have passed him without slowing down at all.

His Worship, said he thought Dr. Strahan would have been well advised to have waited until he reached the upper bend. In this Colony, there were a number of dangers on the roads, and a certain amount of care and discretion had to be exercised in passing another vehicle. Under the circumstances he was bound to convict defendant, and imposed a fine of $10.

R. E. DRIVERS IN A HURRY

Three Royal Engineer Lorry drivers, J. Dunstone, L. Amey and H. R. Heath, were each fined $8 by Mr. Butters on admitting charges of speeding in King's Road on April 26. They were alleged to have driven at speeds between 32 and 36 miles per hour.

Defendants said the road was wide and there was little traffic about, and as they were in a hurry to get back to Barnack, they had speeded up.

A fine of $10 was imposed on Mrs. Sheng Wai Sin-chi, of 9 Gap Road, for leaving her car unattended outside Marine House for three-quarters of an hour on April 26. Traffic Sergeant G. Appleton said the chauffeur told him Mrs. Sheng was shopping.

Also summoned for leaving their vehicles unattended, Mrs. K. Y. Wong, of Nathan Road, and Mr. H. Masudin, of Ice House Street, were each fined $5.

Mr. Lau Man-cho, reporter, was fined $3 for leaving his car unattended in Ice House Street on April 24. He pleaded that he was in a hurry to get to Kowloon that day, as there had been a murder at Yaumati. He had been around all the car parks in the vicinity of the Star Ferry wharf and could not find a parking space.

Traffic Sergeant said there were about 18 cars parked opposite the Hongkong Club on the Connaught Road Praya.

For causing an obstruction in Duddell Street on April 26, Lu Tuk-chuek was fined $5. Sergeant Sargent said that cars were only allowed to be parked on the west side of the street.

of three, comprising the Kiangsu Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, the Shanghai Commissioner of Customs and the Shanghai Harbour Master, the latter also a Customs employee. The consultative board consists of six members, one from each of the nations having the greatest visiting tonnage, and one appointed by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce.

The latter board has the power of making representations to the Executive Board if it considers the interests of the port are being neglected, and, if not satisfied, may refer to a Consular Committee which again may refer to the Diplomatic Body.

The Reformed Government in Nanking, it was understood, will soon appoint an official to take the place on the Executive Board provided for in the agreement for the Kiangsu Commissioner of Foreign Affairs.

damaged, rendering Japanese support from outside extremely difficult.—Central News.

Puhsien, Shansi, Recaptured

Shansi, Shansi, May 13.
Following a slight lull over a week, Puhsien, north-west of Linfen, in west Shansi, has been recaptured by the Chinese.

The Japanese forces, numbering about 1,500 men, retired from the city after setting fire to many buildings.

Traffic on the Chengtai Railway is now entirely disrupted as a result of the damage done to the bridges and tracks by the Chinese. Shouyang station, east of Tolyuan, was burned by the Chinese.

During a recent engagement at Taku, south of Tolyuan, more than 400 Japanese soldiers were killed.—Central News.

Japanese Cross River
At Puhsien

Chengchow, May 13.
In an attempt to establish a junction with the enemy in Yuncheng, which the Chinese abandoned yesterday, the Japanese forces at Puhsien, near the Shantung-Hopei border, crossed the Yellow River there yesterday.

The Chinese are now engaging them on the south bank of the river.—Central News.

Puhsien Taken

Hankow, May 12.
A Chinese military communique states that Chinese troops have occupied Puhsien, in western Shansi, the Japanese retreating towards Heihukwan.

Japanese troops at Puyang are stated to be making an attempt to cross the Yellow River at Tungkuo, in an effort to move into western Shantung.—Reuter.

Yungcheng Taken

Shanghai, May 13.
Yungcheng, key strategic position south-west of Hsuehchow, was captured by an unnamed Japanese detachment at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a Japanese military spokesman said here this morning, confirming earlier press dispatches.

It was taken after the Japanese had defeated the Chinese forces holding positions on both sides of the walled city, he added.

In three raids upon Puhsien, south of Hsuehchow, the Tientsin-Pukow railway, Japanese naval aircraft yesterday inflicted heavy damage upon station buildings, munition stores and Chinese troop concentrations throughout the town as well as upon Chinese forces north of Puhsien.

Chinese soldiers, the spokesman said, were also carried out upon troops and Chinese military establishments south of Mengcheng, in northern Anhwei province. Mengcheng is now held by Japanese troops.

In raids upon the Tsinho and Pailun districts in Kwangtung province, Japanese naval aircraft yesterday subjected the fields to severe bombing, the spokesman added. Chinese aircraft were not seen in that area, he said.—Domet.

Hope For The Worst

Shanghai, May 13.
The China Press, in an editorial this morning regarding the Japanese landing on Amoy Island, said that if Japan was planning an invasion of South China an extension of Sino-Japanese hostilities was inevitable.

"In view of the difficulties the Japanese forces have encountered in Central and North China, a new venture in South China might be the straw that would break the camel's back."

"The Japanese have taken enough on their shoulders, and they may be extremely ill-advised to undertake more, without risking untimely collapse."

"It is to be hoped, for the sake of both China and Japan, that the landing on Amoy Island is only a temporary gesture."—United Press.

Violent Fighting Near Hoi

Lium, May 13.
Violent fighting took place yesterday on the border of Hoi and Chaohsien, where a Japanese column attempted to push northward to reinforce their comrades on the Meng-cheng sector.

Occupying a range of hills, the Chinese halted machine-gun bullets on the advancing Japanese, killing and wounding a large number.—Central News.

Japanese Planes Over

Hsuehchow, May 13.
For the third successive day Japanese planes rained death and devastation on Hsuehchow yesterday.

Most of the missiles released landed in the district of the city, killing and wounding a large number of civilians. Investigations are being conducted into the exact casualties.

It is now ascertained that an American church was wrecked during the air raids Wednesday. Despite a large American flag and a Red Cross emblem conspicuously painted on the roof, the Japanese airmen released bombs on the building three times.

The incident has been reported to the American Embassy.—Central News.

Training Thousands

Shanghai, May 13.
With a staff of 60 foreign officers under him, General von Falkenhayn, chief German advisor to Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, has trained 500,000 Chinese troops in Hankow.

Mr. John Gunther, American author of "Inside Europe" now touring the Far East, is a correspondent for the San Francisco Chronicle, told

Air Attacks

Valencia Suffers Similarly

Barcelona, May 12.

There are 46 dead here and 48 injured following two air raids this afternoon.

In Valencia there are 22 dead and 80 injured as a result of an air raid last night.

The insurgents claim to be continuing to close in on the pocket they have formed between the sea and the city, which is believed to contain 10,000 Government troops.

It is declared they have advanced to a point from which they are threatening Castellon del Plan, a Mediterranean port.—Reuter.

MADRID OFFENSIVE

Hendaye, May 12.
In a surprise attack on the industrial districts of Valencia, insurgent planes carried out an intensive bombing last night.

Loyalist circles believe this heralds the beginning of a new insurgent offensive to sever Madrid from the sea.—United Press.

LOYALIST LOSSES

Sulamencia, May 12.
Over a thousand Loyalist dead were counted in one sector alone after yesterday's insurgent advance east of Teruel.

According to an insurgent communique, 200 prisoners were taken, and huge quantities of war materials were captured.—Reuter.

INSURGENT GAINS

Teruel, May 12.
Insurgent headquarters in the Teruel sector announce that the improvement in weather conditions has enabled forces under General Varela and General Garcia Vallino to resume operations in the Alfabra sector.

Since early morning the insurgent artillery has heavily shelled the chief centres of resistance, while bombing planes dropped numerous bombs over the loyalist positions.

A number of loyalist ammunition depots were hit and exploded. The loyalist defence positions were, the communique states, completely demolished.

The Navarrese division and the Legionaires of General Vialto then attacked and captured a number of mountain positions and townships. Loyalist militia units hastily retreated, pursued by insurgent planes.—Trans-Ocean.

private docks and these are all now preparing schemes for the defence of their undertakings in the event of an air raid.

"A circular letter is also to be issued shortly to all business firms employing over one hundred people asking them to co-operate with the Government."

"It is proposed further to form a women's A.R.P. unit the object of which will be to teach the women of the Colony simple air raid precautions so that if the necessity arises they can apply these lessons to their own households. This organisation will work through the existing societies, the Helena May Institute, and so on, and lectures will be given by qualified anti-gas instructors and medical officers."

"By this means it is hoped to train a number of women here with a view also to obtaining volunteers who will give their services to the Government for certain A.R.P. work."

law says that when the tenant is in arrears the landlord is entitled to go to the house and seize everything in it. Even though the sub-tenants have all paid their rent, they have no remedy except against the principal tenant. The only remedy I can suggest is that you should locate the principal tenant, who had apparently misappropriated the rent, and proceed against him. Against the landlords you have no redress.

Mr. Armstrong: I asked this man whether he had asked the principal tenant to produce the receipt. He said he had but the principal tenant refused on the ground that it had nothing to do with him. It seems that the only way the sub-tenants can possibly protect themselves, is to insist on the production of the receipt by the principal tenant before they pay their rent. In view of the presence of the Press, I think the widest publicity about this should be given.

His Lordship agreed, and advised the claimant that in future he should insist on the principal tenant producing the receipt for the previous month before paying the rent for the next.

The claim was dismissed, but it was later learned that the case would be re-opened to-morrow at 11 a.m.

Car Plunge Into River Kills Three

Czechoslovakia
Diplomat Killed In Crash

Prague, May 12.

M. Bohdan Pavlu, the well-known Czech diplomat and more recently Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs, was killed yesterday in a motoring accident near the village of Bosnisch-Nowi, in Yugoslavia.

M. Pavlu lost control of the car he was driving, and the machine plunged into the river.

Mme. Pavlu, who was sitting beside her husband, escaped drowning by smashing one of the windows of the sedan and swimming to the shore.

Mme. Pavlu suffered a fracture of the left arm and internal injuries.

Two other occupants, whose names are at present unknown, were also killed.

M. Pavlu, who was born in 1883, was educated at the Prague University, and in 1918-19 was appointed Czechoslovakian Charge d'Affaires in Siberia, during the Allied intervention campaign. He became Minister to Bulgaria in 1927 and five years later was appointed Minister to Denmark. Before joining the Foreign Office in 1937 he was Czechoslovakian Ambassador to the U.S.S.R. —Trans-Ocean.

JUNK PEOPLE PUNISHED

Thirteen junk owners appeared at the Marine Court this morning charged with having made fast to the steamer Wu Chang while she was under way here on May 12, without permission of the master of the ship.

All pleaded not guilty.

Sergeant Bole said that at 6 p.m. last night the Wu Chang was coming into harbour from the west. When the ship was 50 yards away from B.12 buoy, he saw the defendants make fast to the ship.

"I steamed round taking the defendants' numbers and when the ship had made fast, I arrested them," he said.

Speaking on behalf of all the defendants, Wong Yee said they had not tied up their junks till the Wu Chang was fast to the buoy.

All thirteen were fined $10 each, with the alternative of ten days imprisonment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

DISCRIMINATION ALLEGED

To the Editor,
Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—Having read an account of the interview with Professor Tan Yun Shan, respecting the sympathetic attitude of the Indian nation towards the Chinese, I take the first opportunity of acquainting Professor Tan before he leaves the Colony, of the comparatively friendly attitude adopted by the Chinese landlords towards the local Indian residents. Admittedly, this is taking a limited view point of things, nevertheless this represents the sentiments in general of the Chinese community towards my nationals here in Hongkong.

I happen to be one of those unfortunate, to whose lot it has fallen that I must "scram" at the end of this month, from the house I have occupied for the past three years, having all along paid my rents a month in advance, no amount of increase in rent satisfying the landlord. Being desperate and on learning that a certain flat was to be let, I quickened my steps in the direction of my friend, the Chinese Landlord, only to meet with a flat refusal, just because I was an Indian, nay—the Landlord thinking it below his dignity even to see me. Mine is not an isolated case. I know of several others, who have been likewise refused tenancy to vacant flats, on the grounds that they were not to be let to Indians.

I am proud, nevertheless, that my nation has such friendly and sympathetic feelings for the Chinese nation. In view of the very cordial treatment which we are at present receiving in response from our friends, the Chinese Landlords, I propose that Indian evacuees who happen to be in the same unenviable position as myself, get together and observe a China Day in Hongkong, in appreciation of the preferential and friendly treatment they are meeting out to us.

Three cheers for the Landlords.
YAN-TO-YAN.

London, May 12.
Colonel Harry Day, Labour Member for Southwark Central, asked in the House of Commons to-day whether the British Government considered making arrangements with the Local authorities for financially assisting necessitous Britons repatriated from countries where political upheaval had forced evacuation. The questioner instanced China and Austria as countries from which many Britons had been driven by force of circumstances, and desired to know whether arrangements made for evacuees from Spain would also be made for refugees from these two countries.

Sir Kingsley Wood, the Minister for Health, replied in the negative. He added that there was no need at present to consider special arrangements with respect to Britons from countries other than Spain. —Reuter.

PASSENGERS MISS AMOY

Passengers on the P. and O. liner Corfu, which passed Amoy yesterday, expected to see something of the prevailing hostilities. However, they were disappointed.

When they got down to breakfast many inquiries were made of the officers as to when the Corfu would pass Amoy.

Only then was it announced that the Corfu had passed Amoy at 6 a.m.—when most passengers were sleeping.

However, officers who were on duty at that time stated that though the ship was reasonably close to the coast, they saw nothing of any hostilities nor heard any noise of guns.

There was a greater percentage of Chinese passengers, who embarked at Shanghai for Hongkong, this trip than for many months.

The Corfu arrived at 9.30 p.m. yesterday, ahead of schedule.

ARE YOU AFRAID OF 13?

By ROBERT LYND

"In some respects I am strongly in favour of the anti-superstition propaganda of the Thirteen Club."

MARGATE has decided to ban the number 13 as a house number in all new streets to be built in the town. It would be interesting to know what the men of science have to say to this.

I should like to see the Statistical Society setting up a committee to inquire into the influence of 13 on the lives of the people who live in houses so numbered. Do worse things happen to people who live in the number-thirteen houses than to the people who live in the number-ones or the number-twentyes? The inquiry would not need to cover all England. A moderately small town or a London suburb would provide all the facts that are necessary.

I myself do not look on the number 13 with a friendly eye; but I blame myself for this: I am convinced that the facts would show that people who live in the number-thirteens are just as fortunate as their neighbours.

More than once I have stayed right knee, I learned from at a number 13 without any ill consequences. Twice I have—Teller, "is the sign of a happy marriage. On the left knee, at table in a company of 13, and warning of a bad temper."

If you ask my opinion the objection to the number 13, is they point to a happy ending, "all rot." And yet—and yet, if I were taking a new house, I should probably avoid a house with that number.

In some respects I am strongly in favour of the anti-superstition propaganda of the Thirteen Club—if it is still in existence—the members of which sit down 13 at table, spill salt, open umbrellas in the house and do all sorts of things that would scare an imaginative man out of his life. But I should not care to dine at the club. I do not believe in superstitions, but I prefer to leave it to other people to defy them.

I often wonder whether we of the unfortunate human race are becoming less superstitious or more so. We belong to the most scientific age in history, yet I sometimes think that we believe in a far greater number of silly things than the less scientific Victorians. Even people who have lost their religious, sadness and despair of that mother can readily be imagined; and the Eugenics League can help hundreds of others as it has helped her.

A part of the work of the League the importance of which is incalculable is the pre-natal advice offered to mothers, and the thorough medical examination given them. Frequently it is found that these expectant mothers are suffering from some sort of ailment which might do the child a serious damage. Often it can be corrected and by this means much needless suffering is prevented. As to the contraceptive work of the League, there is no obligation upon those who seek advice that they shall make use of it.

At present the League's activities are restricted by the fact that the public is not aware of the service offered. In the whole of its first year it had fewer than 300 cases. It should be helping thousands. It is only a question of making its presence known to the masses of poor Chinese.

Despite the growth of psychoanalysis, I do not find it easy to believe even in the interpretation of dreams. I have never dreamt that I was eating radishes; but, if I did, I should pay little heed to the authorities who warn me that "to dream of eating radishes is a sign that you will have trouble with someone nearly related to you or a very great friend."

I have never dreamt of a pheasant; but, if I did, I should not be unduly elated by the information that "this is a good dream, especially if the bird is alive and sitting in the sunshine."

As for dreaming of a negro, I have done that; but I never found any confirmation of the statement: "If the negro seems friendly towards you, the dream may tell you of an unknown friend."

Belief in such things is, it seems to me, about as sensible as belief in the evil influence of the number 13. And there is not much sense in that. I fancy that statistics on the subject would show that horses numbered 13 on the race-card win as often as any others. I have often travelled on a 13 bus and arrived safely at my destination.

Why, then, should the householders of Margate worry? There are plenty of things worth believing in without bothering about the number 13.

Margate should not be superstitious. It should number its houses honestly and fearlessly. I am in favour of every street having its number 13—provided that somebody else lives in it.

How To Live To 100 Years

New York.
VISIONS of human life and vigour extending well beyond 100 years are conjured up by "cradle control" tests with diet revealed in a report by three American doctor-dieticians to-day.

The doctors, C. M. McCall, L. A. Maynard and G. Sperling, have experimented with white rats at Cornell University for the past three years, and the results were told in Baltimore to the American Institute of Nutrition.

Based on the principle that life is prolonged by controlling the intake of calories while maintaining adequate nutrition during the early stages of growth, the experiments show, according to the doctors' report, that

SPAN IS FLEXIBLE
Life's span, rather than being fixed from birth by heredity, is flexible and can be increased to an extent at present unknown; and

Retardation of growth affords a method of retarding senescence (growing old) and extending the life-span far beyond the normal.

The three doctors took 105 newly-born white rats and divided them into groups, one under control, the other feeding normally.

The controlled group were given the same proteins, vitamins and minerals, and were retarded in growth by lack of calories alone.

Retardation of growth was stopped in different sub-groups at 300, 500, 700 and 1,000 days respectively, after which the rats were allowed to eat and grow normally.

The report says: "Before the group that was retarded for 1,000 days had reached this age all the members feeding normally had died after passing through the usual period of old age. The retarded animals tended to remain young in appearance in contrast with those that grew normally."

CHALLENGE TO OLD IDEAS
The doctors point out that the experiments "challenge the popular conception that rapid growth develops the best bodies for long life."

Cautious scientists attending the Baltimore meeting say there appears at present no positive reason why the discoveries made in these experiments should not apply to all realms of animal life, and human life itself.

The doctors themselves go no further than to point out that rats which should have died at the end of 600 days have lived to 1,000 days, which, in human life, would correspond to a period of nearly 107 years. The rats are still alive.

If the same laws apply to human beings (and there appears no reason to expect they will not), then parents by accurately controlling early diet could also control the prospective life-span of their children.

Japan's Gains Of No Great Significance

PINCER-GRIP WON'T HURT CHINA ARMY

Chiang's Troops Far Too Numerous To Be Herded To Defeat

(Special to "Telegraph")

Hankow, May 13.

China has despatched a number of full-strength divisions into the Kweichow area in order to stem the Japanese advance from Tsining, and the strength of the Chinese forces on both sections of the Tientsin-Pukow railway is over 60 divisions, or approximately 400,000 men.

A deep and dramatic change has come over the Chinese troops in Shantung, where the spirit of the army is a spirit of victory. Soldiers and officers absolutely believe in themselves and in some cases, like General Fan Sung-fu, the defender of Tungkwang, believe Japan has offended against Heaven and that God carries the banners of the Chinese.

The army is calm and has gained experience. The officers believe the Japanese have made irreparable mistakes, that Japanese soldiers are fighting without a goal before them; but Chinese officers are not over-confident. They believe the Japanese may take Hsuehchow, but that their losses will not be compensated by its capture.

A few months ago it would have been unthinkable to trade divisions from army to army, commander to commander, without arousing friction and jealousy. That has all changed.

The army has practically all been recruited since the Lukouchiao incident which started the war. The men are mostly educated and their patriotism is high when they are ordered to defend a position either until death or rescue comes.

Forget Their Pain

The wounded lying by the roadside, groaning, forget their pain and excitedly tell how they fought.

While the Japanese have reached a point five miles south of the Lung-hai railway, below Tancheng, the movement has little significance as the ground has been empty of defenders always. They could have moved in at any time. The Chinese prefer to remain on their northwestern flank.

The pincer movement from Mengcheng in the south and Tsining in the north will have little effect, then, unless the Japanese reinforcements come in large numbers and not piecemeal, as they have been doing. As the Chinese forces are so numerous, the pincer movement is like trying to tie up a ten of bricks with a piece of string.

Position Not Secure

While the Japanese policy seems to have undergone a drastic change in the last three weeks, with reinforcements reported to have actually left Japan, the previous unwillingness to send reinforcements in China, who found themselves pitted against a superior force, operating in a hostile country and hampered by an aroused peasantry. The conditions were strikingly like those encountered Napoleon when he invaded Russia.

Chinese guerrillas have inundated the land, stranding tanks, breaking Japanese into small groups and then attacking. The Eighth Route Army has moved into the southern section of the Peiping-Hankow railway, and the whole of southern Shantung and Honan, north of the Lung-hai line, overflows with angry farmers, armed bandits and savage Red Spears.

Foreign military observers emphasize that unless the Japanese send heavy reinforcements from home their only reasonable strategy is to retire north of the Yellow River and strive to consolidate their gains. However, with reinforcements now reported on their way, this advice is not likely to be taken.

A Chinese drive northward, past Tancheng, with a wide sweep from the west towards Tsaoan, now cannot be carried out, it seems. The best estimate of Japanese strength at present on the Tientsin-Pukow railway front is 125,000.—United Press.

HEROIC CHINESE FIGHTING GAMELY

Amoy Completely Deserted

Amoy, May 12.

Throughout Tuesday night there was an almost continuous exchange of machine-gun and rifle fire on Amoy Island.

The Japanese renewed an intensive aerial bombing at dawn on Wednesday, with the Chinese forces gradually falling back on Amoy City, on the western side of the island.

On Wednesday afternoon a number of large fires appeared in the city, and the Chinese main body commenced retreating to the mainland, three miles distant. The Japanese reached the western waterfront late on Wednesday afternoon, and immediately commenced mopping-up operations.

Meanwhile an intensive aerial bombing continued throughout the day, the Japanese planes roaring overhead unopposed owing to lack of Chinese planes and anti-aircraft guns.

Despite the marked superiority of the Japanese war machine, the ill-equipped Chinese defenders continued to make a heroic stand with the island forts and isolated units holding out throughout Wednesday.

The evacuation of women and children to the Foreign Settlement on Kulungsu Island, 1½ miles away, commenced on Tuesday morning, but no men were allowed to cross until the evening.

REFUGEES SWAMP KULANGSU

To-day, however, practically the whole of the 120,000 inhabitants of Amoy City are crowded on the 10 square miles comprising Kulungsu.

Tens of thousands of refugees are blocking every street, which have become almost impassable. All public buildings, schools and churches are full to overflowing.

The food problem is most acute, but Foreign committees are making emergency arrangements.

Chinese military casualties were most heavy, and hospitals and emergency centres on Kulungsu Island are overflowing with wounded brought across in small launches and sampans.

Wounded who were taken across the Kulungsu are, however, only a fraction of the Chinese casualties, while the Japanese, who also suffered heavily, are attending to their own wounded on Amoy Island.

FORTS HOLD OUT

On Wednesday morning the Japanese continued bombing and shelling the forts, which are still resisting gallantly, despite the terrific hail of high explosives raining upon them.

No contacts have yet been made between the Japanese invaders and the authorities of the Foreign Settlement. Meanwhile, all foreigners are safe on Kulungsu.—Reuter.

Yunchen was evacuated by the Chinese following a most severe Japanese artillery bombardment, reports declared.

Japanese forces from Tsining are also advancing along the motor road towards Kunghsing, and are stated to have captured Shingpitsi, 20 miles north of Yutai, after the village had been destroyed by heavy shelling.

The Japanese forces advancing along the Lung-hai Railway from Mengcheng suddenly turned in a northerly direction towards Yungchen, south of Tungshan.

Advices from Shantung headquarters add that the vanguards of the Japanese forces have reached Shikungshan, 40 miles north of Yungchen.

The Chinese forces, it is stated, are launching a vigorous counter-attack.—Reuter.

Fighting Reaches Decisive Stage

Hsuehchow, May 13. Fighting in west Shantung and north Anhwei is reaching the decisive stage.

Another Talerchwang battle is being fought at Mengcheng on the north bank of the Ko River, north-west of Peking. Though the Japanese are now in possession of the city, two columns of Chinese reinforcements are making an attempt to recapture it.

A Japanese unit has penetrated to the vicinity of Yungchen, 10 miles north-west of Mengcheng, on the Anhwei-Honan border. The Chinese military authorities, however, are not perturbed by their daring advance, believing that they can be rounded up without much difficulty. Chinese troops have already been dispatched to engage them.

In west Shantung the Chinese have abandoned Yungchen, but reinforcements have arrived ready for a counter-attack. Kinshang is now the chief point of contention. Under a heavy barrage Japanese infantry units are furiously attacking the town. The Chinese are putting up stiff resistance, repulsing one Japanese onslaught after another.

Japanese air squadrons heavily bombed Hsuehchow, Tientsin and Chungking in the south-west corner of China.

JAPANESE LODGE NEW COMPLAINT.

Another Affront From Russia

Tokyo, May 13.

In a fresh addition to the long list of recent Japanese protests to the Soviet, Mr. Kensei Horinouchi, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, yesterday made vigorous representations with M. Michel Slavutsky, Soviet Ambassador here, against a Russian report to the effect that Mr. Tsuru Kuwabara, Japanese charge d'affaires at Kabul, had "invited" the Soviet envoy there "to join the Japanese secret service."

Mr. Horinouchi asked for the immediate suppression of anti-Japanese propaganda being carried on in Russian press with regard to the matter.

Mr. Kuwabara, the Vice-Minister was understood to have told M. Slavutsky, had reported that he had seen the Soviet ambassador in the Afghanistan capital for only five minutes during a courtesy call early in April when "only formal greetings were exchanged."

The alleged report of the Soviet diplomat, Mr. Horinouchi added, was "groundless and constituted an unfriendly act towards Japan."

Commenting on this action, the Foreign Office spokesman here to-day remarked that the Soviet allegation betrayed "the suspicion with which the Soviet Government regards its diplomatic representatives abroad."—Domet.

European Trade With Far East

Stagnation Caused By Sino-Japanese Conflict

Berlin, May 12.

Herr E. Hefflerich, Chairman of the Hamburg-America Line and President of the Far East Union of Hamburg and Bremen, who has resided for several years in the Far East, this morning issued a survey on the outlook for German trade in the Orient.

The position to-day, said Herr Hefflerich, was not quite so hopeless for Germany as it had been in 1910, after the Great War. Nevertheless, he declared, circumstances in 1910 were vastly different to those ruling in 1938.

To-day, both from the standpoint of Europe as a whole and of Germany in particular, it was difficult to forecast with any reasonable degree of accuracy the prospects for the future.

Trade was at a standstill throughout the greater part of the Far East, or, at best, was far below normal. Everything was overshadowed by the Sino-Japanese conflict.

"The path of the German merchant and trader in the Far East since the Great War has been a very rough one indeed," Herr Hefflerich said.

ENCOURAGING FACTS

An inquiry instituted by the Far East Union has, however, revealed some encouraging facts. As far as organization was concerned, German trade with the Far East is on a firmer basis than ever. German trade bases in the East have been considerably extended, and German General Chambers of Commerce at Shanghai, Tientsin, Canton, Hankow, Manila and Batavia were now recognized by Germany. All these Chambers worked in close harmony with the Far East Union of Hamburg and Bremen, as well as with the German Economic Chamber.

"The prospects for German trade in the Far East are not as bad as it would seem under present conditions," the speaker declared.

"There are weighty problems to be solved by the countries in the Orient, problems that will have no ultimate solution until centuries have passed."

"At present, German traders must be content to await events and hope for a speedy end of hostilities in China."

"Both China and Japan are friends of Germany and my earnest hope—one which is shared by the Fuehrer—is that peace will be established soon between the two great countries of the Far East.—Trans-Ocean."

CLIPPER TO ARRIVE TO-MORROW

The Pan American Airways Clipper flew from Guam to Manila to-day and, provided the typhoon continues on its present course, will make a round trip to Hongkong to-morrow.

The plane is expected here about 10.30 a.m. and will remain only an hour before taking off on the return flight to Manila. Should the plane be further delayed at Manila by the typhoon the round trip will be delayed until Sunday.

Home Mail Delayed

The Imperial Airways plane due to-day is running 24 hours late, and will not now arrive until to-morrow evening.

Hongkong is temporarily without its General Officer Commanding. Yesterday, Major-General A. W. Bartholomew, accompanied by members of his staff, sailed by the P. and O. liner Carthage for Shanghai, to carry out a routine inspection of the British forces in North China.

He will be away until June 10.

Traveling with the General Officer Commanding were Brigadier A. V. Thomson, M.B.E. (A.A. and Q.M.G.), Captain H. S. P. Hopkinson, (G.S.A.), and the A.D.C., Captain F. J. H. Worth, R.A.

Accompanying the party were Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Hopkinson. Brigadier F. W. L. Blissett, D.S.O., M.C., will be in command of the Hongkong garrison until the G.O.C.'s return.

DECREE NISI GRANTED

A decree nisi, to be made absolute in six months, was granted by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, to Mr. Henry Gilbert, in his petition for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Marguerite Gilbert. Mr. Charles Juvot was named co-respondent.

The petition was not defended. Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. H. C. Lee, appeared for Mr. Gilbert.

LADY NORTHCOTE SCORES FIRST RACING SUCCESS

GLADIATOR WINS A RACE AT LONG LAST FAVOURITES FAIL IN MANY OF THE EVENTS

(By "Captain Foster")

After five placed outings during the present season, Gladiator made amends at Happy Valley last Saturday by scoring the first win for Lady Northcote in the Mount Gough Handicap for "A" class China ponies. It was her Ladyship's initial success since making her debut as an owner at the Twelfth Extra race meeting held on December 4. His Excellency the Governor, Sir Geoffrey Northcote, was indeed quite happy to lead in the pony ridden by Mr. Proulx and the trio were accorded with general "hats off" and the usual clapping of hands.

The other features of the Fourth Extra Race Meeting held last Saturday were, with the exception of Lady Northcote's Gladiator and Mr. Li Tse-fong's Gold Coin, the failure of hot favourites and as a result there were several juicy dividends. The best of the afternoon was $341.40 paid by Mr. W. H. S. Davis' Election Time with the assistance of a novice jockey, Mr. F. D. Colson, in the Talmoshan Handicap (first section) for "D" class China ponies. Incidentally this was the biggest dividend of the year, eclipsing Sen Dragon's share of $260.20 for a win in the Tytam Handicap ("B" division) for subscription griffins of this year. Mr. L. J. Feilden's Estover, with Mr. T. W. Chatterly, was still in the novice class and ran a good second in the Talmoshan Handicap (second section) for "D" class raters and this hurdle from Fanning handed out $70.10 for a place to the delight of 30 staunch supporters.

The attendance of the general followers of the turf was not up to the usual mark, but nevertheless the two pari-mutuel counters were kept busy and the first prize of the cash sweep in the last race was $4,305.52, the cost of the ticket being a dollar. Racing itself was not devoid of close finishes and the judicious allocation of the poundage was in certain measure responsible for the general upsets.

Strange as it may be, the following stalwart jockeys, Messrs. D. Black, C. Encarnacao and H. C. Pih did not steer a winner, but Messrs. A. W. Raymond and A. F. Colson each scored a double. The last named rider was in great form on Election Time and he was the former pony giving Mr. Colson his first win at Happy Valley.

OPENING EVENT

Oak Bay Ridden By Mr. Encarnacao

Contrary to expectation, Mr. Encarnacao took out Oak Bay, belonging to Mrs. Stanton, instead of Mr. A. W. Raymond in the opening event, the Mount Gough Handicap for "A" class China ponies over six furlongs, but he was not to be helped as Lady Northcote's Gladiator was too good to be caught napping and won by a clear margin of two and a half lengths. His Excellency the Governor arrived long before the first saddling and he was a great pity that Lady Northcote was not present to witness the running of her racer. The first to break through was Gladiator, ably ridden by Mr. Proulx, and he was immediately chased by his rival, Oak Bay. Rounding the bend, the latter got on level terms with the distance post was reached, but thereafter Gladiator drew away without any trouble and won as he liked. It was a fast run, the whole time being clocked at 1.25½, exactly a second slower than the present record of 1.24½ held by Mr. T. E. Pearce's King's Warden.

Lucky Lad Beaten Out Of A Place

First Certainty To Fail Badly

The first certainty to go west was seen in the "Charters Towers Handicap" for "B" class Australian ponies over a mile, when my fancy, Lucky Lad (a hot favourite) finished nowhere, but I was not alone in this. Second choice, Home Brew, romped home as the winner. It was a surprise, as Home Brew's first appearance in this company of runners, and it was hard to fathom why he was not selected in the pari-mutuel. He paid $12 for a place and it was certainly big money. At any rate there was a good crowd out of 13, but after Saturday's content I was fully convinced that the youngsters of this year were no match against the old seasoned ponies. I am afraid that Annabella has got into the bad habit of playing the goat. At the Easter meeting in the Calliope Handicap over six furlongs, Annabella refused to start with the field when the gate was released and last Saturday she stopped on the same spot. Pinkie was a pull of the lead against Tribute, but was late in coming out of the ruck and even then he finished a good second. Charybdis and Fel Ying put up a poor show.

OUTSIDER PAYS BACKERS HANDSOMELY

Election Time Hands Out $341.40 For Win

As was anticipated, the best race of the afternoon was in the Talmoshan Handicap (first section) for "D" class China ponies over a mile and there was a tremendous shout when the saddle cloth number of Election Time was placed first in the frame and paid $341.40 for a win. The mare was ridden by a novice Mr. Colson, who took advantage of the 5 lbs. allowance, but it seemed that this was overlooked by the experts. The field got away with a good start and the order of running at the north gate was Cuban Love, Final Triumph, Dekko, Dor-rachito, Election Time and the rest following in the rear. It was a fast pace for the first half-a-mile, the time being 1.01½, but after passing the rock, Final Triumph was leading with Dekko, Election Time, Salvage Master and Valorous about two lengths away. Entering the home straight there were several positional changes, but as the steeds neared the distance it could be seen that Election Time, who came on the outside berth, was causing some anxiety to Final Triumph and Dekko. At this juncture Valorous was also going well on the rails. Salvage Master and Borachito were labouring and they threw in the sponge after passing the public entrance. Election Time, Dekko, Final Triumph and Valorous tore down the last 100 yards to a grand finish. After a few minutes of deliberation, Election Time secured the verdict by a head while half-a-length separated Dekko and the two third ponies, Final Triumph and Valorous, who were locked together. I was very much impressed with Mr. Colson, who rode a well-timed race from the back and he should not be forgotten whenever he weighs out at Happy Valley. Golden Cow, who was heavily backed, finished among the "Also Rans" while Salvage Master (second favourite) did not run too well with five pounds under the scale weight. Plet Hein (Mr. Encarnacao) weighed out at six pounds over the allotment and he was never in the picture.

LANCASHIRE LASS WINS EASILY

Fast Race In Mount Davis Handicap

Following up the thrill, Mr. Ip Kai-ying made no mistake on Lancashire Lass in the Mount Davis Handicap (first section) over a short sprint from the 1½ mile post, and the grey mare beat the handicapper annexing the event by many lengths. It was a fast trip, for the jaunt was covered in 1.07, the time being exactly one four-fifths second outside of the record of 1.05½ held by Oak Bay. The running of Scenic View (second) was an opener while Amberley, who was leading at the head of the home stretch, gave a very disappointing display by coming in fourth. There was some heavy wagering on Just In Time (Mr. C. Encarnacao) who was backed to the tune of 1,445 tickets (representing $7,225) and the blackie was among the tall end runners. It was too much of a gamble for a sprinting event and furthermore there were 11 starters.

MR. COLSON WINS SECOND RACE OF DAY

After winning a short distance event at Macao, Tribute, with the assistance of Mr. Colson, showed the betting public again that he was a speedy merchant, but the pony only just managed to match the issue by half-a-length in the "Hunkbacks Handicap." In my opinion Cape Comorah (Mr. H. Botelho) who had a pull of the lead against Tribute, was late in coming out of the ruck and even then he finished a good second. Charybdis and Fel Ying put up a poor show.

Mrs. Nell Hopman, Miss Thelma Coyne, Miss Nancy Wynne and Miss Dot Stevenson, the Australian tennis players, who have done quite well in England in recent tournaments. They will represent Australia at the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Violet Queen Pays Well For Success

The surprise packet was Brutus (Mr. Proulx) in the Canterbury Park Handicap for "C" class Australian ponies when the bay gelding was left standing at the release of the barrier. He was left with so much ground to make up that it was impossible for him to secure a place and he let the public down very badly. Violet Queen seemed to really gain her old form and there was no "dunk" about her success which paid $61.40 for a win. Another pony, which went well, was Snowy River, who finished a good third, but Discovery Bay, who failed to get a place, was a bad fourth.

Gold Coin Justifies Faith In Him

Public Shows Fine Sense Of Judgment

There was a last minute rush for Gold Coin to win Talmoshan Handicap (second section) for "D" class China ponies over a mile and he was the second favourite. It was impossible to understand why there were 1,045 chances taken on this pony and the second favourite was Tempest, who had only 337 backers. There was no justification in the confidence placed in Gold Coin, for the mare had, prior to this run, a sequence of four unplaced outings at Happy Valley whereas Tempest, who was placed twice at the Easter session, was considered a minority. However it has been difficult on many an occasion to gauge the flow of public money on certain runners, but as it was, Gold Coin turned up to annex the Talmoshan Handicap by three good lengths and naturally it resounded everywhere when the division was only $12.10 for a win. Being a Fan-only contender, Estover was backed by six punters, who were out for big money and the grey representative from Kwantl finished second. Had he crossed the wire first, Estover would have returned over $1,000 for a win.

NEW STAR BACK TO BEST FORM

Now Running Well For Kong Bros.

Mr. Li Lang-sang had four acceptors, Harvest View (Mr. Wong), Havee Eve (Mr. W. H. Choy), Humdrum Eve (Mr. F. L.) and Mr. Li Po-chun had two representatives (Expansion Time and Expression Time) and so did the stable, Marber with Jobber and Royal Scot in the High West Handicap for "B" class China ponies. The would hardly believe that among this bunch, Humdrum Eve was the only one to shine for he ran a good third.

Five Years After!

C. V. Grimmett, famous Australian bowler, in an article published by the "Melbourne Herald," says that the "bodyline" attack by England's fast bowlers during the 1932-33 tour was quite fair. "It succeeded," he says, "chiefly because of faulty footwork on the part of our batsmen. When they were hit they had only themselves to blame."

behind New Star and Potentate. He was, however, leading the pack until the ½ mile beacon was reached, but after that he dropped back and then rallied again in the home run. Credit must be given to Mr. S. W. Tang on the winner, New Star, for the jockey nursed his mount to a nicety. It is interesting to relate that New Star was not always in the limelight under the charge of Mr. Reidy, but since the return of the animal to the original owners, Kong Bros., the bay gelding has been placed in the last five outings with two wins and three seconds to his credit.

JUNGLE JIM A WASH-OUT

Fails Completely In Last Event

Jungle Jim was certainly a "wash-out" in the last event, the Mount Davis Handicap (second section) for "C" class China raters from the 1½ mile post. It was his first appearance in this section from a "B" class 5 lbs. for jockey allowance, he was never in real danger. It was learned after the race that Mr. Gregory, the jockey, was figuring to graduate on Jungle Jim, but the pony declined to please him.

ANOTHER MAMMOTH SCORE BY CRICKET TOURISTS IN ENGLAND

Australians Flog Cambridge Bowling Mercilessly

London, May 12.

The Australian cricket tourists made another mammoth score in their match against Cambridge University. After compiling 541 against Worcester, 679 for seven wickets against Oxford and 590 for five against Leicester, the tourists have now hit up 708 for five against the Light Blues.

A. L. Hassett made his third successive three-figure score and his highest innings of the tour by scoring 220 not out, giving a masterly display of batting. He was at the wickets for 260 minutes and hit 35 boundaries. C. L. Badcock also shone, hitting up 166, which included a six and 29 fours.

In their fourth wicket partnership, Hassett and Badcock put on 275 runs in 185 minutes.

Yesterday, Fingleton scored 111 and Bradman 137. At close of play to-day, Cambridge had made 73 for the loss of two wickets. Their first innings realised 120.—Reuter.

It will thus be seen that the tourists have scored a total of 2,518 in their four matches to date for the amazingly high average of 63.94 runs per wicket. They beat Worcester by an innings and 77 runs; Oxford by an innings and 487 runs; and Leicester by an innings and 163 runs.

List Of Centuries Scored To Date

The following list of centuries will help to show how well the Australian cricket tourists have done in their matches in England to date:

Don Bradman	(v. Worcester) ... 253
(v. Cambridge) ... 137
J. H. Fingleton	(v. Oxford) ... 124
(v. Cambridge) ... 111
S. J. McCabe	(v. Oxford) ... 110
A. L. Hassett	(v. Oxford) ... 146
(v. Leicester) ... 148
(v. Cambridge) ... 220*
C. L. Badcock	(v. Leicester) ... 198

Baseball

YANKEES LOSE TO INDIANS

Chicago Cubs Succeed

New York, May 12.

Adverse weather conditions again caused the curtailment of both the National and American Baseball League programmes to-day.

New York Giants, leaders in the National section, were not engaged, but Chicago Cubs, second in the League table, won their match against Brooklyn Dodgers. Pitching for the Cincinnati Reds, Dehringer, blanked out the Boston Braves although he allowed them six hits. The Reds themselves forced four men home on only five hits.

In the American League, New York Yankees lost their first match for several days when they were beaten by Cleveland Indians. It was a tight game and was decided by the odd game in five. The Indians scored three runs in five, and the Yankees from four hits, and the Yankees managed to get only two runs although they had five "safes," including a home run by Lou Gehrig.

Washington Senators improved their position with a close win over Detroit Tigers by 7-6. The matches New York Giants v. St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies v. Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League, and the matches Chicago White Sox v. Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns v. Philadelphia Athletics in the American League were not played owing to the cold.

Scores:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	5	8	1
Chicago	0	12	0
Cincinnati	4	5	0

(Dehringer pitched for the Reds and Myers homered).

AMERICAN LEAGUE

	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	3	4	2
New York	2	5	2
(Gehrig homered for the Yankees).
Detroit	0	7	2
Washington	7	11	0

(Travis and Myer homered for the Senators).

who lost the Cup to France—any that we do not want the rules altered but shall take every opportunity under them to get the "Cup" back. That view, I think, is shared by the players.

AMERICANS OPPOSE BIENNIAL DAVIS CUP COMPETITION

By A. Wallis Myers

London, Apr. 5.

In "The Daily Telegraph and Morning Post," a fortnight ago, I drew attention to the surprised concern which had been created in the United States over the decision of the Lawn Tennis Association to support the proposal for making the Davis Cup a biennial instead of an annual competition.

The question, which has a fundamental bearing on the organisation of lawn tennis throughout the world, and may conceivably even effect the future of Wimbledon, is to come up for discussion and voting in London on June 30, when the delegates from 30 Davis Cup nations will assemble for their annual conference.

That America, who founded the international team championship in 1900, and have watched its world-wide development with fatherly pride ever since, are perplexed by the attitude adopted by the British governing body, is shown by the official letter which has just been sent out to all competing countries. From this communication I quote some of the salient passages.

While fully aware of the difficulties that have arisen in the conduct of the competition in the European zone during the last 10 years, the American Association does not consider they are sound enough to change a structure which stands as an edifice and as a bulwark to a leading international sport and to the most universally played game in the world.

They have never offered, nor do they offer now, any objection to the solution of European zone problems by the European Davis Cup nations themselves, but they are unanimously opposed to any interruption of its annual decision. Here are some of their reasons.

NO OBLIGATION TO CHALLENGE

No nation is under any obligation to challenge. "If in any year a nation does not desire to challenge that is no reason why those who want to compete should be denied the right to do so. We regard it of great importance that liberty of action shall remain with each country for each year.

"It is frequently the case that the next year may seem particularly opportune for various reasons but, if the competition were on a biennial basis, it would undoubtedly happen that the opportunity could not be seized."

The Americans contend that the change would undoubtedly weaken public interest. "Holding the competition every other year would mean that for only four or five months every two years the international struggle for the Cup would be brought to the attention of the public, and then a period of a year and a half or more would elapse during which interest would decline."

The average number of years, devoted by players to the Davis Cup, is short—probably not over five years. "The proposal," it is adopted, would cut that period in half, which would not only be a detriment to the players but also to the game. The players would have to play for a longer period of time to secure the Cup."

every year that his game is good enough for him to make his team, and he is impelling a player to reach and hold his goal. The knowledge that he could play but once in two years would lessen the incentive."

STANDARD WOULD SUFFER

The inspiration to ambitious young players to some day represent their country in Davis Cup matches would be weakened. "We also believe that the average standard of playing ability of all players throughout the world would suffer."

The Davis Cup is an amateur competition, and one of the strongest reasons urged in the letter for "leaving well alone" is the effect any change would have on professional exhibitions. "The activities of professionals and promoters would undoubtedly be strongly stimulated, particularly in the off year. It is obvious that the inducement to leading amateur players to become professional would be greatly increased."

The official letter ends by reminding the competing nations that the Hon. Dwight F. Davis gave the Cup to promote friendly international relations and to be played for annually. The competition has prospered far beyond his expectations.

"He believes that the almost unbroken record of annual decision has contributed much to the success of his plan and wholeheartedly joins the United States Association in opposing the proposed change."

That these cogent arguments will be carefully weighed by the British Association goes without saying. The American and our own are the two oldest governing bodies—indeed, the United States Association was born before the British—and the relations between the two bodies have always been close and friendly.

FIRST AND LAST

They were the two last, as they were the two last, countries competing for the Cup.

American visiting players from the time of Dwight Davis, in 1901, to Budge last year, have largely helped to make Wimbledon what it is, just as the two visits of the Donnelly brothers to America early in the century in connection with the Davis Cup, and of Fred Perry in later years, gave a great fillip to American lawn tennis.

It should be added that the South Africans, unable by the expense involved to field a team annually, were the first to suggest a biennial Davis Cup. When we held the Cup we were not officially in favour of the plan.

Now that we may not regain it, we must think of ways to keep it.

Ambassador On Dorado

Four passengers left Hongkong by the Imperial Airways R.M.A. Dorado this morning shortly after 6 a.m.

They included Herr E. Ott, German Ambassador to Japan, who is on his way to Berlin from Tokyo. Herr Ott was entertained yesterday at Government House and conferred here with Dr. O. Trautmann, German Ambassador to China, who flew from Hankow for the meeting.

Other passengers included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher, who are on their way to London. Mrs. Fisher is better known as Violet Cressy-Marks, traveller and authoress. Mr. and Mrs. Marks have been travelling during the past four months in North China.

Miss Wood, of Bangkok, who has been spending a holiday in Hongkong, also left on the plane for Bangkok. The plane carried 150.547 kilos of mail and 10.013 kilos of freight.

Persecution Of Jews Resented

United States Sooks Assurances

Berlin, May 12.

It is learned that the American Ambassador to Berlin has made representations to Germany against violation of the German-American Treaty of Friendship.

Under the terms of the Treaty, American subjects and American property in Germany enjoy equal rights with those of German subjects and property in the United States.

It is understood that the United States Government wishes assurances that property of American and German Jews of American citizenship will not be appropriated.

The United States admits no distinction between Aryan and non-Aryan Americans.—Reuter.

Fair Weather To Continue

Hongkong was a degree cooler at 10 o'clock this morning compared with the same time yesterday, the temperature reading 80. Humidity had increased to 70 per cent.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 83, compared with 85 the previous day, and the minimum last night was 74.

The Royal Observatory weather report states that feeble anti-cyclonic areas are situated over South China, the Sea of Japan and the Pacific to the east of the Bonins, where pressure is highest. Depressions are situated over Mongolia and in the Pacific to the north-east of Hokkaido. The depression of the Philippines is situated about 300 miles east of North Luzon, moving east-north-east.

Local forecast is: East and south-east winds, moderate; fair.

STOP PRESS NEWS

Colony May See Defences Strengthened

According to the Military Correspondent of the London Sunday Chronicle Britain will shortly announce startling plans affecting all Colonies which may be affected by war.

Defences of Colonies are to be considerably strengthened everywhere.

Mr. Hore-Bellisha's visit to Malta is the first step in this policy of colonial reinforcement. It will be followed by visits to other Colonies and the Dominions by leading members of the Imperial General Staff.

Early steps are to be taken to replace civilian governors in certain colonies by senior officers of the fighting services. Other measures that are to be taken to strengthen the overseas defences include:

- 1.—Local Defence Corps in the colonies to be strengthened; 2.—More British Army units to be sent to garrison them; 3.—Squadrons of the R.A.F. to be stationed in all colonies; 4.—Australia and Indian navies to be increased; 5.—South African, Australian and Canadian Air Forces to be doubled.

In addition, latest-model coastal defence batteries are to be installed, together with anti-aircraft artillery units.

FOUR SMALLPOX CASES REPORTED

Eighteen new cases of infectious disease were reported to the Health Authorities during the past 24 hours. Included were four cases of smallpox, bringing the total to 2,239 since January 1.

In addition there were five cases of measles, four of meningitis, three of dysentery, and one each of diphtheria and enteric fever.
